WE NOMINATE

Allen Howard Kassof, one of the handful of American sociologists specializing in Soviet affairs, who departed this week on a 20-day swing through Eastern European nations and the U.S.S.R. For the 37-year old Princetonian, on leave from his Princeton University duties as Associate Professor of Sociology and Assistant Dean of the College, it was one of his first assignments as Executive Director of the newly founded International Research and Exchange Board which is charged with organizing, and then sustaining, this country's largest program of academic exchanges with Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Rumania, the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia.

Numbered among the leading American Sovietologists, a generation younger than George F. Kennan and his associates, Kassof is devoting a sabbatical year to a major, exhausting and at times exasperating task: fostering mutual understanding and better relations between the countries involved. With the support of The Ford Foundation, and the endorsement of the Department of State, Kassof and his associates — in an area in which American efforts have not been capped with success — will attempt to facilitate new patterns of exchanges and arrange new forms of international scholarly cooperation.

The New York-born Kassof, widely regarded as a top authority on Soviet youth and author of "The Soviet Youth Program: Regimentation and Rebellion," has been specializing in Russian studies since his undergraduate years at Rutgers with the Class of 1952. Earning his advanced degrees at Rutgers and Harvard, he taught at Smith College for four years and, on leave from Smith, was serving as a Research Fellow in Harvard's Russian Research Center when called to Princeton in 1961 as William Paterson Bicentennial Preceptor, a post comparable at the level of assistant professor to an endowed chair on the plateau of full professors.

A good omen for Kassof's success in this new venture, which is jointly sponsored by the American Council of Learned Societies and the Social Science Research Council, has been his effective direction of Princeton's Cooperative Undergraduate Program for Critical Languages. This program, each year enabling some 25 young men and women from other campuses to study "critical languages" at Princeton (for example, Arabic, Chinese, Japanese, Korean and Persian), is looked upon as a "pilot plan" for a nationwide network of "receiving institutions" that would provide coverage for all of the "critical languages," from Bengali and Hindi to Munda and Sanskrit, by sharing institutional resources.

Kassof, highly articulate and well aware of the sensitivities he will be encountering in such nerve-centers as the universities in Russian-dominated Czechoslovakia, won kudos last spring as editor of "prospects for Soviet Society," a comprehensive overview of social change in the Soviet Union. Drawing conclusions from the contributions of 18 fellow specialists, Kassof suggested that changes in Soviet life over coming decades "are likely to take place within a still overwhelmingly authoritarian political system . . . in an atmosphere characterized by the continuing efforts of the Communist Party to mobilize and to control the material and human resources of the entire society."

For seeking to establish two-way communication between these United States and populations behind the still impenetrable "Iron Curtain;" for believing that intellectual relationships between individual scholars, and research and educational institutions here and abroad, can be developed; he is our nominee as

COMMUNITY DISMAYED

By Michael's Resignation. Kenneth Michael resigned suddenly on Monday after six years as principal of Princeton High School.

"I need a change," is the reason he gave to his students at an informal meeting after school and at class assemblies held on Tuesday. He added later, "I just don't want the kids to think they were at fault —or anyone. It's just me."

"My own reaction is dismay," Mrs. Suzanne Fremon, president of the Board of Education said before Tuesday's hearing on the budget. "I think we are all aware that Mr. Michael has provided in this high school a humanizing and stabilizing influence. . . I think we all in Princeton owe him a daily debt that we can never repay."

The board has not held a meeting to receive and act upon the resignation, she said. "Though we may eventually be forced to accept this resignation. . ."

Stand Is Firm. Mr. Michael said Monday that nothing could make him change his mind. He had decided upon this move during the first weeks of school this fall. Originally, he said, he intended to wait until January 1 to notify the board.

Word of Mr. Michael's resignation met with consternation that matched the board's. Borough Mayor Henry S. Patterson said Tuesday morning, "I hope very much that he can be persuaded to change his mind. He has been a tremendous addition to the community."

He recalled seeing Mr. Michael in Borough Hall on nights when the teenagers were restless, moving quietly around to see whether he might be of assistance. "This was above and beyond the call of duty. His interests have never been confined to the high school but to wherever his students happened to be," the mayor said.

"He's really liked at the high school," a senior girl said. "He's a really good guy." The students circulated a petition throughout the school Tuesday morning stating their support of the principal. "About half of the students signed: there wasn't time for all to sign. . . He told us he was leaving not because of the racist situation but because the school needed a change," the senior said.

"Little Things" Decisive. Mr. Michael said at one point this week that " a lot of little things" made him decide to resign. One of the youth leaders deeply involved in the teenagers' world had this comment:

"It's a very lonely job. He really needs a lot of support from the community. But everyone's an expert on school because they have been to school. . .He's criticized unfairly."

"He has no control over how many black teachers are hired to work in the school system... He's blamed because the emphasis is on an academic curriculum.

"This is under the control of the Board of Education! It reflects the interest of the community at large.

"I don't think anyone realizes how difficult reginnalization has been on the principal. A lot of people who were angry about that are still angry.

"And discipline—there is a key change here, parents used to assume their child was in the wrong. Now they assume the school is wrong when their child gets in trouble. A lot of it is the whole protective role of the parent. This cannot be faulted. It's like finding your precious diamond ring is a rhinestone . . . Parents project their own guilt on whoever brings it up.

. . . And he has the problem that the acts of some of the kids, a minority, color the whole school reputation."

Teenagers in Trouble. The youth leader speak most feelingly about Mr. Michael because they have worked with him on teenagers who are in trouble from drugs, or drink or racial outbursts. Bill Kight, now affiliated with Trinity Episcopal Church, told Town Topics:

"Both times we've had racial troubles, Ken Michael has gone down to the black kids on the 'black top' or at the Youth Center. He sat at ABC (Association of Black Collegians) meetings that lasted most of the night. . .He stated his position quite early on what they could and could not do at the high school—it was a position of strength. He showed a great deal of understanding of their position in terms of what they were experiencing at the school."

Wilbur Williamson, director of the Youth Center, adds: "When we had that outbreak last spring just before graduation, he worked on racial problems into the early morning hours. He was trying to find an answer to what could be done for the black students —to satisfy them.

"Another thing, he told Bill and me that in all his years as a school principal, he had never expelled a boy from school, but he found that the agitators had to go. This is when he first suspended some of the fellows.

"I mean, the man is very fair. He is so very concerned about the welfare of a lot of these kids. I know he's deeply upset by all this. . .and I think this is because he cannot find an answer.

"Usually what the kids do reflects their upbringing. I'd say he's upset to the point that he's confused and disgusted. I personally hope he doesn't quit. He has an awful lot of patience and its worn pretty thin now."

A Lack of Awareness. And from Rogers Carrington, director of Youth Associates of 20 Nassau, "He's the best thing that's happened to this town —but you just get tired of pushing. People don't recognize the problems of this town.

"For one thing, we have not developed an educational system for parents to prepare them for what's happening in the youth culture. They say, 'What we fought for in the Second World War, what we scraped for afterward . . . who's to tell us that it's obsolete?'"

Bill Kight suggests that Ken Michael take a year's sabbatical, "one year away from the situation . . . to think about it and decide where to move next."

Mr. Michael, 44, has thought so far of possibly teaching for a year. His field is mathematics. He was a school principal in Illinois and at the Mount Washington (Del.) High School before coming to Princeton. His wife teaches in the John Witherspoon School

The most trenchant remark comes from the superintendent of schools, Dr. Phillip E. MacPherson, "I'm not accepting his resignation now. This is just a verbal indication, and I want to talk to him some more. You don't twist the arm of a man like this, but this is a real loss . . ."

No Calls to Santa

Part of Christmas in Princeton will be missing this year.

Henry Schultz, who has delighted thousands of children for two decades as Princeton's telephone Santa Claus, has been forced to discontinue his role because of failing health. TOWN TOPICS and the proprietors of The Better Mousetrap once located at 164 Nassau Street, began the program in 1949 with Mr. Schultz, who is now over 80 and totally blind.

TOWARD PUBLIC HOUSING In Township. The neighborhood analyses required by Federal public housing officials may be done in the Township by Kendree and Shepherd, the Township's professional planners.

Committeeman William L. Wilson said Monday night that the analyses might have quicker and smoother acceptance by Federal housing officials if a professional hand does the job. He estimated the cost at $3,000, and said it would probably be in next year's budget.

He added that Administrator Joseph R. Nini has drawn up a list of 40 Township residents who could be asked to serve on the citizens advisory committee for public housing.

Mr. Nini reported that the review of building codes, to bring them in line with Federal housing standards, was making progress.

Danger on Cherry Hill. No sidewalks have been built in the Township in 1968, the Traffic Safety Committee has noted with disapproval. The Committee is distressed at the moment about Cherry Hill Road, which cyclists and young pedestrians find hazardous.

Ralph Bennett, transportation man for the Princeton Regional Schools, has warned that when Stuart Road is completed next year, youngsters living in the Balcort area will have to walk along Cherry Hill to Princeton Day School and Stuart Country Day instead of riding the bus.

Township Engineer Frank Quinby said that black-top bike paths are cheaper than sidewalks and more flexible (they bend around trees) and he was commissioned to make a feasibility study of bike-paths vs. sidewalks.

Mr. Quinby once asked Committee to make a formal commitment to the state, promising to close off Valley Road if the state will install a light at Route 206 and Terhune.

Mayor Carl C. Schafer asked Mr. Quinby to find out precisely what the state requires of Committee.

William Cherry, 24, Dempsey Avenue, requested a Terhune Road sidewalk when the traffic light is installed and Valley Road's Witherspoon to Route 206 stub is closed off.

Committee introduced an ordinance reducing the Valley Road speed limit from 50 to 35 miles an hour, with a 25 m.p.h. zone during school hours between Witherspoon and Harris Road. Public hearing December 16.

Robert Sinkler and William Bonthron were appointed to four-year terms on the Joint Recreation Board.

COUPLE IS TARGET Of Attempted Holdup. A Princeton couple were the victims of an attempted holdup Friday evening in the parking lot next to the Public Library.

Borough police identified them as Henry Bass, 301 Cherry Valley Road, and his wife, Kathryn. Mr. Bass told police that he and his wife were about to get into their car around 8:40 after having eaten at a nearby restaurant when they were approached by three Negro males. He said all were about 5'7 and in their early 20's.

Mr. Bass continued that one of the three demanded his wallet and his wife's purse. "He pointed a dark, snubnose pistol at me", Mr. Bass told police, and said "this is a gun. Give me your wallet!"

Instead, Mr. Bass reached out and slapped the gunman's hand away, whereupon the three ran off in the direction of Witherspoon and Spring Streets.

Mr. Bass called police and Pfl. Anthony Ranfone, Pfl. Timothy Huizing and Pfl. Robert Mucciarelli went to the scene in patrol cars. Their search of the area, however, was unsuccessful.

Plans Made to Fight Post Office

Residents of the area next to the proposed north Harrison post office are conferring with lawyers about possible legal action in light of the court decision this week favoring the Thanet Corporation.

Steve Slaby, 469 Ewing, said the United States Post Office had stated in writing that it would not put what Mr. Slaby calls "a postal depot" in any area unless the building met with the zoning requirements of the Township.

Mr. Slaby said he and his neighbors have already spent $4,000 in legal fees fighting the post office and Thanet, and had obtained more than 400 protesting signatures on a petition.

"We paid this money out of our own pockets to enforce a law now being violated by the U.S. government post office," Mr. Slaby stated. "To put it bluntly, 'something smells!' "

He has charged that the post office building proposed for North Harrison is a "postal warehouse" rather than a post office. "This is where the public has been deceived," he said.

"YES" TO POST OFFICE In Court Decision. The way was cleared this week for a new post office building on North Harrison Street, unless Princeton Township makes a successful appeal.

Judge Clifton C. Bennett of Superior Court ruled on Monday in favor of the Thanet Corporation, owner of a five-acre tract on North Harrison which is has leased to the United States Post Office Department for a new post office building.

In September, 1967, the Township Zoning Board unanimously turned down Thanet's request for a variance so the post office could be built. The board's decision came after lengthy hearings—six evenings of transcribed testimony which included heated protests from residents of the area.

After the rejection, Thanet filed its complaint against the Zoning Board, later amending the complaint to include Township Committee, in order to find out from the court whether the Post Office Department was immune to a community's zoning ordinances.

Township Committee hasn't yet had time to meet and decide whether to file an appeal. After Judge Bennett signs the judgement—probably next week, according to Thanet's counsel Garrett Heher, — the Township has 45 days to file.

Two Firmly Opposed. Actually, Township Committee has never been asked, formally and legally, whether it wants a post office on that parcel or not. The two new Committeemen who take office on January 1 came out strongly against a North Harrison post office in the course of their campaign.

"The post office still wants to meet all the Township's zoning requirements" emphasized Ridgely Cook, president of Thanet, following the court's decision.

He said that parking, side yard, set-back and screening requirements would all be met. He pointed out that when the Township Planning Board asked for more customer parking in the rear of the post office, Thanet moved the building 50 feet forward and provided thereby approximately 250 parking spaces. Mr. Cook said that this overall plan would be the one the post office would follow.

"The post office wants to close ranks and co-operate fully with the Township, and Thanet wants that, too," Mr. Cook continued. "We believe this is for the good of the town, and we think neighbors will see that the post office doesn't create all the traffic and noise they feared.

ZONING PASSED With Amendments. Borough Council passed the new zoning ordinance, plus 26 minor amendments, Tuesday night by a 4-1 vote. Fred Peterson voted "no" and William L. Walker abstained.

Then Council introduced a brand-new ordinance amending the one that was only five minutes old. The new amending ordinance increases the allowed height of buildings in the Central Business Zone from four to five stories.

Mayor Henry S. Patterson explained that Conneil decided on this move because the height change is, in a legal sense, a "major" amendment, and to attach it to the original zoning ordinance would have meant n whole new legal advisement at a cost to the taxpayer of about $1600.

Besides Mayor Patterson said Council thinks the change in building heights ought to be

No Calls to Santa

Part of Christmas in Princeton will be missing this year.

Henry Schultz, who has delighted thousands of children for two decades as Princeton's telephone Santa Claus, has been forced to discontinue his role because of failing health. TOWN TOPICS and the proprietors of The Better Mousetrap once located at 164 Nassau Street, began the program in 1949 with Mr. Schultz, who is now over 80 and totally blind.

TOWARD PUBLIC HOUSING In Township. The neighborhood analyses required by Federal public housing officials may be done in the Township by Kendree and Shepherd, the Township's professional planners.

Committeeman William L. Wilson said Monday night that the analyses might have quicker and smoother acceptance by Federal housing officials if a professional hand does the job. He estimated the cost at $3,000, and said it would probably be in next year's budget.

He added that Administrator Joseph R. Nini has drawn up a list of 40 Township residents who could be asked to serve on the citizens advisory committee for public housing.

Mr. Nini reported that the review of building codes, to bring them in line with Federal housing standards, was making progress.

Danger on Cherry Hill. No sidewalks have been built in the Township in 1968, the Traffic Safety Committee has noted with disapproval. The Committee is distressed at the moment about Cherry Hill Road, which cyclists and young pedestrians find hazardous.

Ralph Bennett, transportation man for the Princeton Regional Schools, has warned that when Stuart Road is completed next year, youngsters living in the Balcort area will have to walk along Cherry Hill to Princeton Day School and Stuart Country Day instead of riding the bus.

Township Engineer Frank Quinby said that black-top bike paths are cheaper than sidewalks and more flexible (they bend around trees) and he was commissioned to make a feasibility study of bike-paths vs. sidewalks.

Mr. Quinby once asked Committee to make a furmal commitment to the state, promising to close off Valley Road if the state will install a light at Route 206 and Terhune.

Mayor Carl C. Schafer asked Mr. Quinby to find out precisely what the state requires of Committee.

William Cherry, 24, Dempsey Avenue, requested a Terhune Road sidewalk when the traffic light is installed and Valley Road's Witherspoon to Route 206 stub is closed off.

Committee introduced an ordinance reducing the Valley Road speed limit from 50 to 35 miles an hour, with a 25 m.p.h. zone during school hours between Witherspoon and Harris Road. Public hearing December 16.

Robert Sinkler and William Boothron were appointed to four-year terms on the Joint Recreation Board.

COUPLE IS TARGET Of Attempted Holdup.

A Princeton couple were the victims of an attempted holdup Friday evening in the parking lot next to the Public Library.

Borough police identified them as Henry Bass, 301 Cherry Valley Road, and his wife, Kathryn. Mr. Bass told police that he and his wife were about to get into their car around 8:40 after having eaten at a nearby restaurant when they were approached by three Negro males. He said all were about 5'7 and in their early 20's.

Mr. Bass continued that one of the three demanded his wallet and his wife's purse. "He pointed, a dark, snubnose pistol at me", Mr. Bass told police, and said "this is a gun. Give me your wallet!"

Instead, Mr. Bass reached out and slapped the gunman's hand away, whereupon the three ran off in the direction of Witherspoon and Spring Streets.

Mr. Bass called police and Pfc. Anthony Randone, P.f. Timothy Hunang and Pfl. Robert Mucciarelli went to the scene in patrol cars. Their search of the area, however, was unsuccessful.

Plans Made to Fight Post Office

Residents of the area next to the proposed north Harrison post office are conferring with lawyers about possible legal action in light of the court decision this week favoring the Thanet Corporation.

Steve Slaby, 469 Ewing, said the United States Post Office had stated in writing that it would not put what Mr. Slaby calls "a postal depot" in any area unless the building met with the zoning requirements of the Township.

Mr. Slaby said he and his neighbors have already spent $4,000 in legal fees fighting the post office and Thanet, and had obtained more than 400 protesting signatures on a petition.

"We paid this money out of our own pockets to enforce a law now being violated by the U.S. government post office," Mr. Slaby stated. "To put it bluntly, 'something smells!' " put up for public discussion, which it will be at Council's next meeting on Tuesday, December 10, at 8 p.m.

He has charged that the post office building proposed for North Harrison is a "postal warehouse" rather than a post office. "This is where the public has been deceived," he said.

At his press conference this week, Mayor Patterson also said that the Planning Board itself was divided on the question of building height.

Highlights of the list of amendments:

● A building that contains a non-conforming use, can now be damaged by as much as 80%, (by fire or bulldozer) and still be rebuilt. The previous figure was 50%. The Peacock Inn, in a residential zone, falls in this category.

● A non-complying building can be rebuilt to the same bulk, if re-building doesn't add to the non-compliance.

● A "conditional" use is now an "authorized" use, which means that the University can convert its dining-halls into girls' dormitories, if it wishes, without going to the Zoning Board to claim "hardship."

● The two Educational Zones will have a catch-all phrase instead of a specific list of uses, so that uses unforeseen today can be accommodated tomorrow.

● Educational institutions will not have to obtain site plan approval for construction anywhere in their E-2, or campus zones.

Mr. Peterson said he voted against the zoning ordinance because he is worried about obtaining rateables and he thinks the town should encourage the construction of office buildings in the Central Business Zone. He said he believes that traffic can be checked by parking garages.

HERE'S THE BUDGET

For Schools. The Princeton Regional School Board explained its $6,174,600 budget Tuesday night to a scattered audience of about 40, gathered in Princeton High School's auditorium for the first in a series of informal budget hearings.

The new budget is $388,500 more than last year's, an increase of 7%. The actual tax levy averages out 10% higher because the school budget year straddles the calendar year and the taxpayer is always paying half of last year's budget and half of this year's budget.

"Preliminary" and "tentative" are words the Board of Education used often to describe its 1969-70 budget proposals. The board can still play put-and-take, but board members say there actually isn't much room to maneuver in.

Throughout December, Board members will polish final budget figures and the complete budget "Profile" will be mailed to house-holders right after Christmas. Copies of the budget may be obtained now at any school.

During January, board members will be available for budget talks to any group that wants to listen. The official public hearing will be held January 14, but the board will not vote on the budget that night. The final vote will be taken January 21.

Teaching. Instruction accounts for a giant slice of the budget pie (see graph above) and the most substantial increase is in salaries: $312,900.

Three factors make up the salary picture, according to Winthrop Pike, board member who is in charge of finances.

These are "competitive salaries"—high enough, the Board hopes, so that Princeton can compete with other towns. "We just about hold our competitive position," Mr. Pike said at a budget press conference Tuesday and Mrs.

Budget Stumbles

About 100 Borough kids strayed, nobody knows how, into the Township last year and were assigned by error to the Township's pupil count.

Pupil enrollment determines how the Borough and Township share the current school expenses and capital outlay that account for 9% of the budget, and last year, Township taxpayers were charged for 100 youngsters who weren't theirs at all.

"We kept hoping the problem would go away . . ." said Board member Harvey Rothberg Tuesday night.

Since it didn't, the board had to even things out. So the owner of a $30,000 Borough house will, under the proposed budget, find an increase of $92 in his school taxes, while the Township $30,000 home-owner will see an increase of only $16. The adjusted 1969 school tax-rate: $3.23 per $100 of assessed valuation for the Borough; $3.85 for the Township.

The board hastily points out that over a two-year period, the two Princetons come out relatively even, with a cumulative two-year increase of $118 in the Borough, $114 in the Township. On that $30,000 house.

George Fremon, board president, added, "But we aren't at the top of anyone's list."

The second salary factor is class size: smaller classes mean more teachers. The third factor is breadth of program," meaning art, music, libraries in each elementary school, gym teachers in each elementary school, special services.

The new budget reflects the second year of a two-year salary agreement between teachers and community. The agreement called for salary raises of 4% or cost-of-living, whichever is higher. William Evans, board secretary, says cost-of-living figures won't be available until December 1, and he expects the figures to be 5% rather than 4, or about $35,000 more in the budget.

Where's the Money? Slicing his budget pie Tuesday night, Mr. Pike explained that 20% of the school system's revenue — $1,227,100 — comes from sources other than local taxes.

This year, Mr. Pike said, the change in state aid formula will bring Princeton $11,000 more than last year. Sharper methods for identifying boys and girls who need help, will bring in $61,500 more in "Special Services" aid. The total increase in non-tax revenues is $136,000.

Budget Is Lean. Although Mrs. Fremon denies it's a "hold the line" budget, it provides for almost no program innovation. The board is considering in this budget, only an expansion of the high school's Trade and Industry vocational program, a possible increase in a psychologist's time, some hammer and nails remodeling to convert older schools to newer teachering methods.

At Tuesday night's gathering, one member of the audience attacked what she called the "junket" to Stokes State Forest by eighth graders and another suggested it wasn't the public's responsibility to pay for in-service teacher training.

Replying to the Stokes questioner, board member Harvey Rothberg said the state bears most of the cost, and that Princeton's $10,000 would otherwise be about $10,50,000.

Mr. Pike, commenting on in service teacher training, pointed out that a teacher, once on tenure is legally an employee until the age of 71, if he wants to stay that long. "We make quite a financial investment in such a teacher." Mr. Pike observed. "I think in-service training is a way of protecting our investment."

When a teacher in the audience asked whether there was budget money to implement recommendations in the forthcoming high school evaluation report, the board admitted there was no contingency fund to meet whatever those recommendations are.

Asks More Daring. "This is a 'stand-pat budget'" charged a member of the audience.

"I think of Ken Michael and his feeling of defeat over the social problems at Princeton High, and the way people have haggled over Wednesday afternoons closing. Damn it, there are more important things than Wednesday afternoons, and you may have to spend money very soon on programs that would have some vital social impact on kids. Blame it on us out in the audience, but you should have risked defeat and been bolder than you appear to be!"

"The attitudes of this community are at the root of Ken Michael's problems," replied Dr. Rothberg. "Can you buy solutions to those problems?"

"Maybe we were too rocked back on our heels by those budget defeats," suggested board member William Marvel. "Maybe we over-reacted."

"When a budget is defeated, a school board faces a genuine dilemma," said Mrs. Fremon. "After all, we're supposed to represent the community. We'd rather spend our thoughts on education than the politics of passing the budget."

The early-fall drought has been replaced by late-fall precipitation that already totals far above normal for November. Expectations are that it will be double the average of around 3.5 inches before the 30-day period ends.

Temperatures will be cooler than usual for the next few days, enough to include possible snow flurries as part of the forecast. A somewhat milder trend is anticipated for the weekend.

Dr. Philip McPherson, superintendent of schools, referred to the three issues of this year —bus transportation, Wednesday afternoon closings and the budget.

"In the months I've been in Princeton," he smiled, "I've heard three big issues: getting kids to school, keeping them there and keeping coats down!"

SOTO IS RULED SANE To Stand Trial in 1969. Jose H. Soto, charged with the fatal shooting of Princeton Bank and Trust teller Mrs. Kirsti A. Pfister last February 13, has been ruled mentally fit to stand trial.

The decision was handed down last week by Mercer County Judge A. Jerome Moore, after a review of the testimony of psychiatrists who appeared at a sanity hearing for Soto October 11. The hearing had been requested by his attorney, public defender J. Charles Popkin. Dr. Julio C. Belcastilo of the Trenton State Hospital testified in Soto's behalf, while Dr. Robert F. Garber, medical director of the Carrier Clinic at Belle Meade, spoke for the prosecution.

Soto's trial had originally been scheduled to begin earlier this month, but the sanity hearing forced a postponement. Because of the upcoming Christmas holidays, a new trial is not expected to get underway before 1969.

Two years ago, Soto was ruled legally insane in Puerto Rico, after killing a taxi driver during a holdup attempt. He was confined to a mental hospital, but escaped and fled to New York early in 1967. He is also wanted by New York police for jumping bail on an armed robbery charge, and for questioning in connection with several other hold-ups.

Ever since he apparently attempted to commit suicide by slashing his wrists last May 16, Soto has been held in the Vroom Building for the Criminally Insane at Trenton State Hospital.

Although he has been judged sane enough to stand trial, the question of Soto's guilt or innocence by reason of insanity was not considered at the hearing, and may be raised once his trial begins.

15-STORY APARTMENT? Application in Again. A proposed 15-story apartment building on Lower Alexander Street will come before the Township Zoning Board again this Thursday night for a sheaf of variances.

Park Lane Equities, Inc., the developer, appeared first before the board last March with a 16-story building, but was granted a postponement and the requests have never been formally heard.

The company, owned by Harold G. Houghton and Joseph Castoro, ran into difficulties last spring when the Township charged the developers with dumping "fill" into the Park Lane acreage property without a permit. The land lies in the flood-plain of Stony Brook. As originally planned, the apratment building would back up to Stony Brook, face the canal and present one side to Alexander Street.

A hearing was held in August before the state's Water Policy and Supply Council. The state approved the fill that was already there, but told Park Lane it had to make some specific excavations in Stony Brook to compensate the flood-plain filled-in land. Precautions to prevent erosion to stabilize the banks of the stream, to control silt and so on, were required.

The state also said the Township can use its own Flood Plain ordinance to control any future fill Park Lane might want to dump.

The present 15-story plans call for 191 apartments, 280 underground parking spaces and 21 above-ground parking slots for guests.

CAR SKIDS ON 206 Passenger Hurt. A car skidded on rain-slicked Route 206 at 4 Monday morning near Township Hall, ran off the road and struck a tree.

One of the passengers, Clevours Hockaday, 20 of Morristown, received contusions of the left foot and lacerations of the right leg. He was taken to Princeton Hospital, treated and released.

Another passenger, Joseph Brown, 22, of Philadelphia, was found to be wanted by the F.B.I. for desertion from the U. S. Marine Corps in June, 1968. He was held and later turned over to the Fourth District Shore Police of Philadelphia, Township Ptl. John Hammond reported that Brown was identified through the National Crime Information Center, a new computerized system that is able to trace names in 30 seconds.

Police identified the driver as Roderick W. Abel, 23, of Philadelphia. The entire front end and right side of his car were damaged. No charges were made against Mr. Abel by the investigating officer, Ptl. Jerry Offredo.

Intersection Crash. Two drivers were hurt Saturday morning at 10:41 when their cars collided at the intersection of Harrison Street North and Franklin Avenue.

One, Seymour H. Snyder, 61, of Hightstown, received contusions of the forehead, right arm ,left hip and both knees. The second driver, Clayton E. Chase, 70, 101 Bertrand Drive, sustained knee abrasions and a laceration of his right cheek. Both men were taken to Princeton Hospital for treatment and released.

Mr. Chase was ticketed by Ptl. Thomas Procaccino for failing to yield at a stop sign

With more conventional instruments, the slug-mugs will be heard in a production of "Noye's Fludde" scheduled for next spring at Trinity Church. NEW CONDUCTOR NAMED

For University Concert. The Princeton University Orchestra's first concert of the 1968 69 season will be led by its new conductor, Peter Westergaard, at 3:30 Sunday in Alexander Hall.

Mr. Westergaard, a composer and associate professor at Princeton this year after teaching at Columbia and Amherst, succeeds Robert Freeman as conductor. His chamber opera, "Mr. and Mrs. Discobbolos," will be performed December 13 and 14 by the University Opera Club.

The program Sunday will include the Bach Fuga for six voices, Number 2 from the Musical Offering; Haydn's Symphony No. 97 in C Major; and Ma Mere l'Oye by Ravel. The public is invited to the concert free of charge.

CONCERT PLANNED

By Hungarian Quartet. Series II concerts at McCarter Theatre will continue Monday at 8:30 p.m., as the Hungarian Quartet presents music from Haydn, Hindemith and Beethoven.

Founded in 1935, after all had graduated from the Budapest Academy of Music, the Quartet was banned from the concert stage during World War II. In Holland for the duration, they mastered Beethoven's 16 quartets and enlarged their repertoire with other composers.

Students of Bela Bartok at the Budapest Academy, the Quartet has concentrated on the composer's cycle of six quartets. Bartok coached the Quartet for the world premiere of his fifth quartet, and wrote his sixth, and last, especially for them.

NEW WORKS ON PROGRAM

From Young Musicians. Compositions by Princeton University graduate students in music will be performed this Firday at 8:30 p.m. The date was incorrectly given in last week's issue of Town Topics.

The concert will be given in Woolworth Center of Musical Studies, and will be open to the public without charge.

Solo compositions will be played by musicians chosen by the graduate composers themselves. Instrumental ensemble pieces will be performed in cooperation with the Group for Contemporary Music from Columbia University.

The program will consist of Bruno Amato's "Frequences;" Richard Ames' Three Movements for Diverse Instruments, Opus 4 and William Benjamin's "At Sixes and Sevens."

Also Roger Nierenberg's "Little Piece for Piano," Robert Pollock's "Five Pieces for Piano" and two compositions; by Harold Oliver; "Reflections for a Pierrot Lunaire Instrumental Ensemble" and "Discourses for a Clarinet."

"FLUDDE" COMING

Medieval Play. "Noye's Fludde," Benjamin Britten's opera based on the Chester Miracle Play from the Middle Ages, will be given next April in Trinity Church, and various committees are already at work.

Arthur Lithgow, executive director of McCarter, will direct the production and James Litton will be director of music. Mrs. James Whittemore is production manager.

The cast of professional and amateur musicians will include nine adult leads, an adult chorus, a children's string orchestra, a professional string quintet, two pianos, organ and timpani. Also bugles, recorders, various percussion instruments — and slug-mugs. (See photo)

The task of adjusting the meters to reflect the change in parking meter rates passed earlier this fall by Borough Council is nearing completion. Borough Engineer Thomas J. Cawley said that he expects the job of changing the 700 meters involved will be finish

Both from Princeton

Nathaniel Burt, composer novelist who lives in Princeton, participated in a recent symposium on "Contemporary Issues in the Arts and Sciences" at Interlochen, Michigan.

In the course of the three day symposium, one of Mr. Burt's compositions, "Elegy of Lucidas," was performed by the Interlochen Arts Academy Orchestra under the direction of Nicholas Harsanyi. Mr. Harsanyi is also director and conductor of the Princeton Chamber Orchestra.

The violinist Isaac Stern was soloist in Mr. Burt's composition and also in other works performed by the Interlochen ensemble under Mr. Harsanyi.

ed "this week." The Borough has a total of 1,000 meters.

Basically, Mr. Cawley reported the change increases the cost of parking for one hour from five cents to a dime. "We still have penny, nickel and dime meters," he said, "but before, when a penny would bring 12 minutes parking time, it now yields only six; a nickel will give only 30 minutes parking instead of the previous hour."

Those who park for longer periods of time, however, benefit under the new system. In parking lots, meters have been converted to a split-rate system. Under this, a driver can buy the first five hours at a rate of ten cents an hour. Then the meter jumps and the next five hours cost only an additional dime. Total cost for 10 hours: 60 cents.

Under the old system, it was a flat 10 cents an hour. Ten hours would cost a dollar.

"It's an aid to the public faced with longtime parking," Mr. Cawley said. "In other words, the nearer one parks to the central business area, the higher the rate. As you move away from the center of town, the time increases and the rates decrease.

ZONERS DENY CENTER

In Montgomery Township. A proposed $5 million shopping center that would be located in Montgomery Township off Route 206 near the Princeton Airport has been denied by that community's Zoning Board.

In a unanimous finding last week, the board ruled that the developer, Fox Hollow Construction Co., had not proved hardship. It also noted that the shopping needs of residents in the area were adequately served by an existing center being developed about a mile north in Rocky Hill at the intersection of Routes 206 and 518.

The zoners further noted that to permit a second center so close by would add to traffic congestion. The proposed 290,000 square foot center was to house a supermarket, a major department store and specialty shops on a 33.6 acre tract.

Calling the action by the board, "insupportable", the attorney for the center, Jack Trombadore, president of Fox Hollow, said that he would file an appeal in State Superior Court. He added that the taxpayers of Montgomery want the center.

THREE ARE FINED

For Speeding. Three Princeton drivers were fined for speeding Monday by Borough Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr.

They are David P. Schumacher, 21, 15 Forrester Drive; Judson M. Carter Jr., 39, 151 John Street, both of whom paid $24; and David Lester, 52, 29 Forrester Drive, $20. Luther A. Page, 21, 7 Leigh Avenue, was fined $15 for careless driving.

David Denito, 19, State Road, paid two fines: $10 for having no registration in his possession, and $10 for driving without lights.

In criminal court, Lawrence W. Kalinowski, 18, Conover Road, RD 1, Trenton, was fined $60 for assault and $25

CONCERTO FOR SLUG-MUG: In medieval times, slug-mugs were wine jugs filled with water to various levels, then strung on racks and played with wooden spoons to produce a kind of slug-rock. With more conventional instruments, the slug-mugs will be heard in a production of "Noye's Fludde" scheduled for next spring at Trinity Church. James Litton on spoons, and Mrs. Frederick Brown, do a little vintage rehearsing.

MUSIC In Princeton

NEW CONDUCTOR NAMED

For University Concert. The Princeton University Orchestra's first concert of the 1968 69 season will be led by its new conductor, Peter Westergaard, at 3:30 Sunday in Alexander Hall.

Mr. Westergaard, a composer and associate professor at Princeton this year after teaching at Columbia and Amherst, succeeds Robert Freeman as conductor. His chamber opera, "Mr. and Mrs. Discobolos," will be performed December 13 and 14 by the University Opera Club.

The program Sunday will include the Bach Fuga for six voices, Number 2 from the Musical Offering; Haydn's Symphony No. 97 in C Major; and Ma Mere l'Oye by Ravel. The public is invited to the concert free of charge.

CONCERT PLANNED

By Hungarian Quartet. Series II concerts at McCarter Theatre will continue Monday at 8:30 p.m., as the Hungarian Quartet presents music from Haydn, Hindemith and Beethoven.

Founded in 1935, after all had graduated from the Budapest Academy of Music, the Quartet was banned from the concert stage during World War II. In Holland for the duration, they mastered Beethoven's 16 quartets and enlarged their repertoire with other composers.

Students of Bela Bartok at the Budapest Academy, the Quartet has concentrated on the composer's cycle of six quartets. Bartok coached the Quartet for the world premiere of his fifth quartet, and wrote his sixth, and last, especially for them.

NEW WORKS ON PROGRAM

From Young Musicians. Compositions by Princeton University graduate students in music will be performed this Firday at 8:30 p.m. The date was incorrectly given in last week's issue of Town Topics.

The concert will be given in Woolworth Center of Musical Studies, and will be open to the public without charge.

Solo compositions will be played by musicians chosen by the graduate composers themselves. Instrumental ensemble pieces will be performed in cooperation with the Group for Contemporary Music from Columbia University.

The program will consist of Bruno Amato's "Frequences;" Richard Ames' Three Movements for Diverse Instruments, Opus 4 and William Benjamin's "At Sixes and Sevens."

Also Roger Nierenberg's "Little Piece for Piano," Robert Pollock's "Five Pieces for Piano" and two compositions; by Harold Oliver; "Reflections for a Pierrot Lunaire Instrumental Ensemble" and "Discourses for a Clarinet."

"FLUDDE" COMING

Medieval Play. "Noye's Fludde," Benjamin Britten's opera based on the Chester Miracle Play from the Middle Ages, will be given next April in Trinity Church, and various committees are already at work.

Arthur Lithgow, executive director of McCarter, will direct the production and James Litton will be director of music. Mrs. James Whittemore is production manager.

The cast of professional and amateur musicians will include nine adult leads, an adult chorus, a children's string orchestra, a professional string quintet, two pianos, organ and timpani. Also bugles, recorders, various percussion instruments — and slug-mugs. (See photo)

It Was Five Years Ago . . .

Early Friday afternoon, five years from this Friday, on November 22, 1963, Princeton learned that President John F. Kennedy had been assassinated.

It would have been impossible to believe, five years ago, that two more assassinations would stun the nation, one of them the slaying of President Kennedy's own brother. It was difficult enough to accept the fact of the President's own sudden and brutal death.

"Isn't it fearful!" said two friends simultaneously, as they met in the First National Bank Building. "How could anyone do such a thing?" said the quiet people who watched the television sets that weekend in the lobby of the Nassau Inn.

The Princeton-Dartmouth game, scheduled for that Saturday, was held a week later. McCarter Theatre cancelled a performance of "Playboy of the Western World" that tragic Friday night, but went on with the show Saturday, with a request from Arthur Lidbgow that the audience look beyond the play's violence to its deeper meanings.

More than 2,600 Princeton residents gathered in the University Chapel Saturday noon for a memorial service. A Solemn High Mass was celebrated at St. Paul's. The Jewish Center's Sabbath service became a Memorial Service.

Stores, schools, municipal offices, the public library were closed on Monday, the official Day of Mourning, and many Princeton shops draped their windows in black.

Looking ahead, one political expert said "The great question is — can Lyndon Johnson transfer his acknowledged mastery as a legislative leader, to the office of the President? If he can, he can become a really great President."

And TOWN TOPICS' roving reporter in a prophetic "Question of the Week," prepared before President Kennedy's death, asked, "Do you think Nixon is sincere when he says he is not a candidate?"

for fighting. The complainant was Borough Pfc. Timothy Huizing. Kalinowski was allegedly involved in a street fight which occurred earlier this fall outside Princeton High School.

The state's Division of Motor Vehicles has suspended for 30 days each, the licenses of three Princeton area drivers for speeding.

They are Robert Drummond, 44, 288 N. Harrison Street; John K. Fitzpatrick, 28, 39 Princeton Avenue; and Theron W. Bern, 34, 30 Nassau Place, Princeton Junction.

PHS ALUMNI TO MEET

At Saturday Party. All adult alumni of Princeton High School are invited to a cocktail party Saturday, beginning at 6 p.m. in the Chambers Street Firehouse.

The affair will feature a cash bar and live music. Admission is $1.00, to go to the Princeton High School Alumni Association. New members may register at the party.

RED CROSS PLANS CLASS

For First Aid Teachers. William Rodweller of 14 Chestnut Street, has been appointed first aid instructor-trainer by the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross.

He will hold classes for those interested in becoming first aid instructors on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 10. Mr. Rodweller has been a first aid instructor for the Princeton Red Cross and New Jersey Bell Telephone Company for many years.

Applicants must be 18 years of age and hold a current Red Cross Advanced First Aid Certificate. The instructor's course requires a minimum of 15 hours. Individuals holding a Red Cross certificate that expires this year and who have not conducted a first aid class during the past two years may take nine hours of this course as a refresher.

Registration may be made through the Red Cross Chapter headquarters (924-2404).

GRANTS APPROVED

By Hopewell School Board. Three grants of not more than $1,000 for demonstration and experimental projects were approved by the Hopewell Valley Regional Board of Education at its monthly meeting.

The projects which were proposed by members of the school's faculty will now be submitted to the State Department of Education for approval.

Other proceedings at the Board meeting included an address by Mrs. Thomas Klum, chairman of a citizens committee opposed to the alignment of I-95.

Mrs. Klum asked the school officials to take a position on the effects the proposed highway would have on the future development of the Hopewell school system. The Board decided to meet with the Department of Transportation to study the present route of the road.

The Board also accepted the offer of the Hopewell Township Committee to build six tennis courts on the Timberlane School site. The offer will be in payment for the Township's use of school property on Scotch Road.

The next meeting of the Curriculum Committee was also announced for December 2. Open to the public, it will be a discussion of the high school's experimental program on comparative religion.

ART COUNCIL MEETS

To Discuss Future Home. The Space Committee of The Arts Council of Princeton has met with representatives of the Borough to discuss the possible use of Miss Fine's gym as a future home for the Arts Council.

It Was Five Years Ago . . .

Early Friday afternoon, five years from this Friday, on November 22, 1963, Princeton learned that President John F. Kennedy had been assassinated.

It would have been impossible to believe, five years ago, that two more assassinations would stun the nation, one of them the slaying of President Kennedy's own brother. It was difficult enough to accept the fact of the President's own sudden and brutal death.

"Isn't it fearful!" said two friends simultaneously, as they met in the First National Bank Building. "How could anyone do such a thing?" said the quiet people who watched the television sets that weekend in the lobby of the Nassau Inn.

The Princeton-Dartmouth game, scheduled for that Saturday, was held a week later. McCarter Theatre cancelled a performance of "Playboy of the Western World" that tragic Friday night, but went on with the show Saturday, with a request from Arthur Lithgow that the audience look beyond the play's violence to its deeper meanings.

More than 2,600 Princeton residents gathered in the University Chapel Saturday noon for a memorial service. A Solemn High Mass was celebrated at St. Paul's. The Jewish Center's Sabbath service became a Memorial Service.

Stores, schools, municipal offices, the public library were closed on Monday, the official Day of Mourning, and many Princeton shops draped their windows in black.

Looking ahead, one political expert said "The great question is — can Lyndon Johnson transfer his acknowledged mastery as a legislative leader, to the office of the President? If he can, he can become a really great President."

And TOWN TOPICS' roving reporter in a prophetic "Question of the Week," prepared before President Kennedy's death, asked, "Do you think Nixon is sincere when he says he is not a candidate?"

for fighting. The complainant was Borough Pol. Timothy Huizing. Kalinowski was allegedly involved in a street fight which occurred earlier this fall outside Princeton High School.

The state's Division of Motor Vehicles has suspended for 30 days each, the licenses of three Princeton area drivers for speeding.

They are Robert Drummond, 44, 288 N. Harrison Street; John K. Fitzpatrick, 28, 39 Princeton Avenue; and Theron W. Born, 34, 30 Nassau Place, Princeton Junction.

PHS ALUMNI TO MEET

At Saturday Party. All adult alumni of Princeton High School are invited to a cocktail party Saturday, beginning at 6 p.m. in the Chambers Street Firehouse.

The affair will feature a cash bar and live music. Admission is $1.00, to go to the Princeton High School Alumni Association. New members may register at the party.

RED CROSS PLANS CLASS

For First Aid Teachers. William Rodweller of 14 Chestnut Street, has been appointed first aid instructor-trainer by the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross.

He will hold classes for those interested in becoming first aid instructors on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 10. Mr. Rodweller has been a first aid instructor for the Princeton Red Cross and New Jersey Bell Telephone Company for many years.

Applicants must be 18 years of age and hold a current Red Cross Advanced First Aid Certificate. The instructor's course requires a minimum of 16 hours. Individuals holding a Red Cross certificate that expires this year and who have not conducted a first aid class during the past two years may take nine hours of this course as a refresher.

Registration may be made through the Red Cross Chapter headquarters (924-2404).

GRANTS APPROVED

By Hopewell School Board. Three grants of not more than $1,000 for demonstration and experimental projects were approved by the Hopewell Valley Regional Board of Education at its monthly meeting.

The projects which were proposed by members of the school's faculty will now be submitted to the State Department of Education for approval.

Other proceedings at the Board meeting included an address by Mrs. Thomas Klum, chairman of a citizens committee opposed to the alignment of I-95.

Mrs. Klum asked the school officials to take a position on the effects the proposed highway would have on the future development of the Hopewell school system. The Board decided to meet with the Department of Transportation to study the present route of the road.

The Board also accepted the offer of the Hopewell Township Committee to build six tennis courts on the Timberlane School site. The offer will be in payment for the Township's use of school property on Scotch Road.

The next meeting of the Curriculum Committee was also announced for December 2. Open to the public, it will be a discussion of the high school's experimental program on comparative religion.

If we told you our new Danish wall system costs 1/3 less than the one of comparable quality...

would you believe us?

We wouldn't blame you, if, for a moment, you hesitated. It's best to take claims of this sort with a grain of salt. Ours was made only after the most careful comparison. We compared the two systems for the quality of the wood (ours is available in teak, walnut or rosewood), the finish, the design and the construction. Then, and only then, did we make our claim. Prove it, you say? Come in, we'd love to. If you can't stop in, send for our free wall system folder or send $1 for our complete 84 page catalog.

The Borough's committee included, chairman William Walker, Robert Hendry, Alan Carrick, Robert Mooney, and Thomas Cawley.

BIOLOGY EXPERT SPEAKS At Watersheds Dinner. Dr. Barry Commoner, chairman of the botany department at Washington University in St. Louis and director of the Center for Biology of Natural Systems, was the guest speaker at the recent annual dinner of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association, describing the effects of a growing population and technology on the nation's air, soil and water.

Unless technologists recognize the increasing pollution of these resources, the conservation expert said, there is a threat that "scientific progress" may result in the destruction of the resources on which modern civilization, and its technology, depend.

David H. McAlpin, honorary chairman of the Watersheds Association's board of trustees, introduced Dr. Commoner. Board chairman Thomas C. Southerland Jr. introduced the trustees and presented a wildlife shrub to each of the more than 200 members and guests attending the dinner.

RHOADS NAMED DIRECTOR Of Hightstown F.S.A. William Rhoads, a staff member of the Family Service Agency of Princeton since 1966, has been appointed director of the agency's three-year-old Hightstown Area branch office.

The supervisor of the Migrant Health Program jointly sponsored by the Family Service Agency of Princeton, the Family Counseling Service in Middlesex County and the New Jersey Department of Health, Mr. Rhoads studied at Guilford College, Greensboro, N.C., and the Graduate School of Social Work at Rutgers University. He is a member of the National Association of Social Workers, Inc., and the Academy of Certified Social Workers.

The Hightstown Area office was opened in early 1963 in response to continuing population growth in the area and increasing requests for service from the Princeton Agency.

TWO CASES LISTED For Borough Zoners Thursday. The Borough Zoning Board will hear two applications at its November meeting this Thursday at 8 p.m. at Borough Hall.

Paul T. Bortell Jr. will seek a four-foot rear yard variance to construct a two-car garage addition to his home at 41 Robert Road.

The law firm of Mason, Griffin & Moore, 201 Nassau Street, which hopes to expand its offices upstairs, is seeking variances that would permit it to add a 5½ by 8-foot elevator shaft to the building.

The building is already nonconforming, and if the applicant comes in under the new zoning ordinance, the request would violate coverage and floor area ratios, according to Borough Engineer Thomas J. Cawley. He added the shaft would be located on an interior wall next to 199 Nassau and would not be visible from the street.

PROGRAM DIRECTOR: Mrs. Rosalie Webb has been named Program Director at the Youth Center. She has previously served as a children's counselor at a juvenile center in the Bronx, N. Y., and as assistant program director at the Westside YMCA.

LIONS NEED SPONSORS For Christmas Tree Plan. The Princeton Lions Club is seeking contributions to support a traditional Community Christmas Tree which would serve as a symbol of the holiday spirit.

The Civic Improvement Committee of the Lions Club has received a donation of a 25-foot, blue spruce, which will be erected on the Plaza in front of Borough Hall.

An estimated $3,000 will be

BIOLOGY EXPERT SPEAKS

At Watersheds Dinner. Dr. Barry Commoner, chairman of the botany department at Washington University in St. Louis and director of the Center for Biology of Natural Systems, was the guest speaker at the recent annual dinner of the Stony-Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association, describing the effects of a growing population and technology on the nation's air, soil and water.

Unless technologists recognize the increasing pollution of these resources, the conservation expert said, there is a threat that "scientific progress" may result in the destruction of the resources on which modern civilization, and its technology, depend.

David H. McAlpin, honorary chairman of the Watersheds Association's board of trustees, introduced Dr. Commoner. Board chairman Thomas C. Southerland Jr. introduced the trustees and presented a wildlife shrub to each of the more than 200 members and guests attending the dinner.

RHOADS NAMED DIRECTOR

Of Hightstown F.S.A. William Rhoads, a staff member of the Family Service Agency of Princeton since 1966, has been appointed director of the agency's three-year-old Hightstown Area branch office.

The supervisor of the Migrant Health Program jointly sponsored by the Family Service Agency of Princeton, the Family Counseling Service in Middlesex County and the New Jersey Department of Health, Mr. Rhoads studied at Guilford College, Greensboro, N.C., and the Graduate School of Social Work at Rutgers University. He is a member of the National Association of Social Workers, Inc., and the Academy of Certified Social Workers.

The Hightstown Area office was opened in early 1965 in response to continuing population growth in the area and increasing requests for service from the Princeton Agency.

TWO CASES LISTED

For Borough Zoners Thursday. The Borough Zoning Board will hear two applications at its November meeting this Thursday at 8 p.m. at Borough Hall.

Paul T. Bortell Jr. will seek a four-foot rear yard variance to construct a two-car garage addition to his home at 41 Robert Road.

The law firm of Mason, Griffin & Moore, 201 Nassau Street, which hopes to expand its offices upstairs, is seeking variances that would permit it to add a 9½ by 8-foot elevator shaft to the building.

The building is already nonconforming, and if the applicant comes in under the new zoning ordinance, the request would violate coverage and floor area ratios, according to Borough Engineer Thomas J. Cawley. He added the shaft would be located on an interior wall next to 199 Nassau and would not be visible from the street.

PROGRAM DIRECTOR: Mrs. Rosalie Webb has been named Program Director at the Youth Center. She has previously served as a children's counselor at a juvenile center in the Bronx, N. Y., and as assistant program director at the Westside YMCA.

LIONS NEED SPONSORS

For Christmas Tree Plan. The Princeton Lions Club is seeking contributions to support a traditional Community Christmas Tree which would serve as a symbol of the holiday spirit.

The Civic Improvement Committee of the Lions Club has received a donation of a 25-foot, blue spruce, which will be erected on the Plaza in front of Borough Hall.

An estimated $3,000 will be

300 AT OPEN HOUSE

For New Merwick Addition. More than 300 visitors, among them Governor and Mrs. Richard J. Hughes, toured the new 32-bed Merwick Extended Care Unit addition Sunday during a public open house.

The new center accepted its first patient on Monday. With the opening of the million dollar extended care unit, Princeton Hospital becomes the state's only comprehensive health care center.

Merwick, located at 79 Bayard Lane, was the state's only hospital affiliated nursing home when it opened in 1937. With its new building, which includes well equipped departments of physical medicine, rehabilitation and occupational therapy for Merwick occupants as well as the Hospital's outpatients, the broader type of nursing service helps establish Princeton Hospital as the only comprehensive health care facility in New Jersey, a claim Mr. Kauffman verified with the New Jersey Hospital Association.

The new building extends westward from the older unit toward Bayard Lane, where there is a new driveway entrance opposite the end of Cleveland Lane.

The two upper floors contain modern single and double rooms for 52 patients, two central nurses' stations and solarium lounges. On the lower level is a spacious dietary department kitchen and dining room for resident guests and a small dining area for employees. The physicial medicine and therapy departments are also on the lower level.

The building was erected under a 10-year lease-sale agreement with C.I.T. Educational Buildings, Inc., a subsidiary of C.I.T. Financial Corporation. Under construction for about a year, the unit is the work of the C.I.T. affiliate, Tandy Industries, Inc. of Tulsa, Okla.

Merwick, the Elsie Proctor Matthews Unit of Princeton Hospital, has served 370 guests —the term used there rather than patients — who were primarily chronically ill or aged. The older section includes an English Tudor-style mansion, located on nine acres of beautifully landscaped property that once was the home of the Episcopal bishop of the Diocese of New Jersey. When he died in 1954, the property was given to Princeton Hospital by T. S. Matthews, former editor of Time, as a memorial to his mother.

Merwick was built by a Princeton University professor, George L. Raymond, who took his wife's initials—M.E.R.—and added "wick" the English word for house to form the name. The hospital added a two-story steel and masonry annex, and the latest addition is tied structurally to the older unit. Total bed capacity at Merwick is now 93.

EXHIBITION PLANNED

By Rocky Hill Railroad. The fifth annual model railroad exhibition, sponsored by the Pacific Southern Railway Company of Rocky Hill, has been scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, December 7 and 8.

The 1,000-piece exhibit will be open from 11 to 5 on December 7, and from 1-5 on the 8th. All proceeds are donated to the Rocky Hill Fire Company and the Rocky Hill Emergency and Rescue Squad.

Admission to the enlarged show is still $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for children under 15. The railroad has built over 300 feet of track and added new structures, scenery and signalling.

A new room has also been added to the home of the railroad on Washington Road, Rocky Hill, and a partition has been removed to show portions of the railroad which were not visible to the 5,000 visitors during the last four shows.

Princeton Applied Research Corporation has offered the use of its parking facilities for the two-day affair, December 7 and 8, and Princeton Motors will supply microbuses to and from the layout, which now includes more than 4,000 feet of track.

The First National Bank of Somerset County, planning a new office in Rocky Hill, is underwriting the cost of admission tickets for the railway.

THREE FILMS PLANNED

By Public Library. A program of three films will be presented in the Lloyd Terrace recreation room at 8 p.m. Tuesday, November 26 by the Public Library, in cooperation with the Housing Authority of Princeton.

The films are "Country Mouse, City Mouse," "Marine Highway," a tour through Nova Scotia's coastal towns, and "Stampede Stopover," a western-style celebration in Calgary, Alberta, Canada. All residents of the project are invited; refreshments will be served after the program.

CONTESTANTS VIE

To Name Rocky Hill Street. The First National Bank of Somerset County has announced a contest to name the new street to run next to their branch bank in Rocky Hill. Any Rock Hill student from the first through eighth grade is eligible for the competition, which carries a first prize of $50 saving's account and a runner-up award of a $25 account.

Contestants may obtain entry blanks at Robotti's Delicatessen, the Rocky Hill Post Office and the Rocky Hill Community Center. The entries will be due at the same locations by December 14, and winners announced at the branch dedication in 1969.

The panel of judges will include Richard C. Hixon, mayor of Rocky Hill; Joseph P. Harmus, chairman of the Rock Hill Planning Board; Ralph W. Bennett, chairman of the Rocky Hill Committee of Streets and Roads; Richard E. Young, representative of the Rocky Hill Community Group, and Robert Henry, manager, of the new branch bank.

YMCA SEEKS $1,400

By Selling Candy Mints. The youth of the Princeton YMCA began a campaign Monday to raise $1,400 by selling chocolate mints, to increase YMCA work in Quito, Ecuador and Torreon, Mexico.

Area participants in the YMCA World Service Chocolate Mint Sale will attempt to sell more than 3,500 boxes of the candy before the end of 1968.

BUY PECANS, FRUITCAKE

Help People Help Themselves. Delicious pecan products, pine cone wreaths, animal wall plaques and hand-crafted note paper are available in Princeton with proceeds going to Operation Freedom and Koinonia Community.

The agency was created in 1961 to give emergency aid to those who were deprived of the necessities of life because of their attempts to register to vote in the South. It helps primarily through loans.

Koinonia, through pecan sales, was able to weather a time of violence and boycott imposed after a Negro family joined the southwest Georgia community. The mail order business is now Koinonia's major income, employing 15 people.

The products — reasonably priced — may be obtained in Princeton at 277 Nassau Street. They are also available in mailing cartons. Further information, price lists, brochures and samples may be obtained by calling 924-6763.

300 AT OPEN HOUSE For New Merwick Addition

More than 300 visitors, among them Governor and Mrs. Richard J. Hughes, toured the new 32-bed Merwick Extended Care Unit addition Sunday during a public open house.

The new center accepted its first patient on Monday. With the opening of the million dollar extended care unit, Princeton Hospital becomes the state's only comprehensive health care center.

Merwick, located at 79 Bayard Lane, was the state's only hospital-affiliated nursing home when it opened in 1957. With its new building, which includes well equipped departments of physical medicine, rehabilitation and occupational therapy for Merwick occupants as well as the Hospital's outpatients, the broader type of nursing service helps establish Princeton Hospital as the only comprehensive health care facility in New Jersey, a claim Mr. Kauffman verified with the New Jersey Hospital Association.

The new building extends westward from the older unit toward Bayard Lane, where there is a new driveway entrance opposite the end of Cleveland Lane.

The two upper floors contain modern single and double rooms for 32 patients, two central nurses' stations and solarium lounges. On the lower level is a spacious dietary department kitchen and dining room for resident guests and a small dining area for employees. The physical medicine and therapy departments are also on the lower level.

The building was erected under a 10-year lease-sale agreement with C.I.T. Educational Buildings, Inc., a subsidiary of C.I.T. Financial Corporation. Under construction for about a year, the unit is the work of the C.I.T. affiliate, Tandy Industries, Inc. of Tulsa, Okla.

Merwick, the Elsie Proctor Matthews Unit of Princeton Hospital, has served 370 guests — the term used there rather than patients — who were primarily chronically ill or aged. The older section includes an English Tudor-style mansion, located on nine acres of beautifully landscaped property that once was the home of the Episcopal bishop of the Diocese of New Jersey. When he died in 1954, the property was given to Princeton Hospital by T. S. Matthews, former editor of Time, as a memorial to his mother.

Merwick was built by a Princeton University professor, George L. Raymond, who took his wife's initials—M.E.R. —and added "wick" the English word for house to form the name. The hospital added a two-story steel-and-masonry annex, and the latest addition is tied structurally to the older unit. Total bed capacity at Merwick is now 83.

EXHIBITION PLANNED By Rocky Hill Railroad

The fifth annual model railroad exhibition, sponsored by the Pacific Southern Railway Company of Rocky Hill, has been scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, December 7 and 8.

The 1,000-piece exhibit will be open from 11 to 5 on December 7, and from 1-5 on the 8th. All proceeds are donated to the Rocky Hill Fire Company and the Rocky Hill Emergency and Rescue Squad.

Admission to the enlarged show is still $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for children under 15. The railroad has built over 300 feet of track and added new structures, scenery and signalling.

A new room has also been added to the home of the railroad on Washington Road, Rocky Hill, and a partition has been removed to show portions of the railroad which were not visible to the 5,000 visitors during the last four shows.

Princeton Applied Research Corporation has offered the use of its parking facilities for the two-day affair, December 7 and 8, and Princeton Motors will supply microbuses to and from the layout, which now includes more than 4,000 feet of track.

The First National Bank of Somerset County, planning a new office in Rocky Hill, is underwriting the cost of admission tickets for the railway.

THREE FILMS PLANNED By Public Library

A program of three films will be presented in the Lloyd Terrace recreation room at 8 p.m. Tuesday, November 26 by the Public Library, in cooperation with the Housing Authority of Princeton.

The films are "Country Mouse, City Mouse," "Marine Highway," a tour through Nova Scotia's coastal towns, and "Stampede Stopover," a western-style celebration in Calgary, Alberta, Canada. All residents of the project are invited; refreshments will be served after the program.

CONTESTANTS VIE To Name Rocky Hill Street

The First National Bank of Somerset County has announced a contest to name the new street to run next to their branch bank in Rocky Hill. Any Rock Hill student from the first through eighth grade is eligible for the competition, which carries a first prize of $50 savings account and a runner-up award of a $25 account.

Contestants may obtain entry blanks at Robotti's Delicatessen, the Rocky Hill Post Office and the Rocky Hill Community Center. The entries will be due at the same locations by December 14, and winners announced at the branch dedication in 1969.

The panel of judges will include Richard C. Hixon, mayor of Rocky Hill; Joseph P. Harms, chairman of the Rock Hill Planning Board; Ralph W. Bennett, chairman of the Rocky Hill Committee of Streets and Roads; Richard E. Young, representative of the Rocky Hill Community Group, and Robert Henry, manager, of the new branch bank.

YMCA SEEKS $1,400 By Selling Candy Mints

The youth of the Princeton YMCA began a campaign Monday to raise $1,400 by selling chocolate mints, to increase YMCA work in Quito, Ecuador and Torreon, Mexico.

Area participants in the YMCA World Service Chocolate Mint Sale will attempt to sell more than 3,500 boxes of the candy before the end of 1968.

BUY PECANS, FRUITCAKE Help People Help Themselves

Delicious pecan products, pipe cone wreaths, animal wall plaques and hand-crafted notepaper are available in Princeton with proceeds going to Operation Freedom and Koinonia Community.

The agency was created in 1961 to give emergency aid to those who were deprived of the necessities of life because of their attempts to register to vote in the South. It helps primarily through loans.

Koinonia, through pecan sales, was able to weather a time of violence and boycott imposed after a Negro family joined the southwest Georgia community. The mail order business is now Koinonia's major income, employing 15 people.

The products — reasonably priced — may be obtained in Princeton at 277 Nassau Street. They are also available in mailing cartons. Further information, price lists, brochures and samples may be obtained by calling 924-6763.

PETTIT & CO. EXCELS

In Mutual Fund Performance. The ability to make the right choices for a mutual fund portfolio is paying extra dividends for the Karl D. Pettit & Co.

The firm, which maintains a branch office here at 4 Nassau Street, was one of five selected last-place firm posted a gain last March to manage the $44 million of Competitive Capital Fund. The five would compete against each other with the understanding that the firm with the best performance at the end of every three months would be given extra amounts of the fund's new money inflow. The fund now has $98 million in assets, and is taking in $6 million more a month.

In a report in the "Wall Street Journal" last month, the Pettit firm was ranked first with a portfolio gain of 29.9%, as opposed to a 25% increase for O'Neil Management Co., which finished second. The psychology, its choices became some of the fund's better gainers. Another ranking will be made at the end of the next quarter

On the basis of these rankings, the Pettit Co. will be allocated 30% of the new money inflow to Competitive Capital, with the other managers receiving allocations in proportion to the percentage increases of their portfolios.

Pettit began jubilantly and was one of the lowest-ranked in the early phase of the competition, because it was relying on the less glamorous and slower moving stocks, but when these became attractive to buyers due to a switch in market

WE HAVE MOVED!
WE ARE OPEN!

The painful, frustrating, and wonderful move into our much larger permanent quarters has been completed at some cost to my temper and sacroiliac. The shop is shaping up nicely, new merchandise is here, and I'm happy to have room to display things properly. I have a lovely Swedish associate, Gun Swackhamer, on hand on weekends and Tuesdays, as well as my Bedlington Terrier — Ty.

Among the new things which deserve mention the beautiful ceramic pieces by Anderson Design — lots more museum reproductions — the largest selection of teak accessories around (salad bowls, platters, relish trays, spice racks, and lamps too!) — crystal by Kosta and Boda of Sweden, as well as a large selection of ittala glass from Finland — Catherine Holm Lotus Enamelware from Norway. You cook in it, serve in it, freeze in it, then place in the oven or even on flame to heat. It's flame proof, stain proof, odor proof. It's great!

Finally let me mention the Georg Jensen Christmas cards from Sweden, beautiful, unique, but not cheap! Lots more, too!

WE HAVE MOVED!
WE ARE OPEN!

The painful, frustrating, and wonderful move into our much larger permanent quarters has been completed at some cost to my temper and sacroiliac. The shop is shaping up nicely, new merchandise is here, and I'm happy to have room to display things properly. I have a lovely Swedish anecdote, Gun Swaekhamer, on hand on weekends and Tuesdays, as well as my Bedlington Terrier — Ty.

Among the new things which deserve mention, the beautiful ceramic pieces by Anderson Design — lots more museum reproductions — the largest selection of teak accessories around (salad bowls, platters, relish trays, spice racks, and lamps too!) — crystal by Kosta and Boda of Sweden, as well as a large selection of Italia glass from Finland — Catherine Holm Lotus Enamelware from Norway. You cook in it, serve in it, freeze in it, then place in the oven or even on flame to heat. It's flame proof, stain proof, odor proof. It's great!

Finally let me mention the Georg Jensen Christmas cards from Sweden, beautiful, unique, but not cheap! Lots more, too!

Stuffing?

... treat your Turkey to the best. Chestnuts prepared for stuffing by Raffetto. One pound tins, 89 cents each.

... and, while you're treating your family, why not take home some of Bon Appetit's fine imported cheeses, such as ripe French Brie, delicate Coulommiers, exquisite Boursault or heavenly Caprice des Dieux.

... or, how about our wonderful Old World specialties such as Black Forest Ham? Nice to have, when signs of Turkey saturation set in!

RESEARCH PRIZE GIVEN

To Rabbi Brenner. The Yiddish Scientific Institute, YIVO, has awarded its Jewish Research Prize for 1967 to Rabbi Reeve R. Brenner of Princeton Jewish Center for his study of the American Jewish Community.

Rabbi Brenner's essay will be published in January under the title of "American Jewry and the Rise of Nazism." Originally titled, "A Survey of the Historical and Ideological Development of the American Jewish Community and Its Response to the Rise of the Third Reich," the essay has been translated into Yiddish.

The Yivo Institute award is one of the most coveted prizes in Jewish scholarship. The Institute, located in New York engages in Jewish social research; collects and preserves documentary and archival material pertaining to Jewish life, and publishes its findings in books and periodicals including the Annual on Jewish Social Science.

Rabbi Brenner, who was installed at the Jewish Center in July, is the author of articles on theology, law and history which have appeared in Jewish publications. He is believed the first rabbi in the United States to be appointed a full faculty member of a Romany Catholic college and seminary, St. Vincent's, in Latrobe, Pa.

It does things other small cars shouldn't do.

Cornering at high speeds is one of the last things to expect small cars to do, successfully. Unless it's a SAAB, the out-of-the-ordinary small car. Out of the ordinary because it has front-wheel drive. So it doesn't push you around like others do. It pulls you around corners, curves and other drivers' mistakes. Is that all SAAB has? Not on your life. Most ordinary cars don't give you, even as options, all the standard SAAB safety features. As an optional extra, our new V-4 engine has a LIFETIME GUARANTEE. SAAB You can drive it like a big car.

It does things other small cars shouldn't do.

Cornering at high speeds is one of the last things to expect small cars to do, successfully. Unless it's a SAAB, the out-of-the-ordinary small car. Out of the ordinary because it has front-wheel drive. So it doesn't push you around like others do. It pulls you around corners, curves and other drivers' mistakes, is that all SAAB has? Not on your life. Most ordinary cars don't give you, even as options, all the standard SAAB safety features.
As an optional extra, our new V-4 engine has a LIFETIME GUARANTEE.

News Of The THEATRES

AND NOW-SHAKESPEARE

"As You Like It". The enchantment of the new "As You Like It" at McCarter is the enchantment of its Rosalind.

Kathryn Walker, new to the company, brings with her all the wit, fire, intelligence and beauty of Shakespeare's loveliest heroine. You'll be happy to take home the memory of her charm.

The production itself is all exuberance, color and pace. John Lithgow, directing at McCarter for the first time, has wound his actors up tight and told them to race for the finish line. A neat course of action to take, not only because modern audiences are impatient with Elizabethans, but because not all modern actors are professionally trained for Shakespeare, and speed can leap over a lot of gaps.

It does mean, however, that Shakespeare himself is sometimes dropped along the way. Some of the loveliest lines, the most lyric poetry are woven through this comedy and you wish that the actors would slow down, or at least change pace, so you could catch a lyric line.

Fur and Feathers. It is Mr Lithgow's fancy to set "As You Like It" with the turning seasons, and we find the exiled duke topped with a fur hat and shivering in mink-wrapped exile, surrounded by courtiers who are just as bright eyed and bushy-tailed as he.

(Charles Blackburn must have had great fun designing those fur costumes, converting a lady's prim neck-piece into a pair of swaggering leggings.)

The seasonal approach fits nicely. Remember how the duke speaks of the "icy fang and churlish chiding of the winter's wind?" and of course here's Amiens with "Blow, blow, thou winter wind . . ."

And there's a perfectly splendid winter hunting scene, like some ancient tribal rite, or maybe a page out of "Lord of the Flies."

Well, the play turns around the Forest of Arden. A charming stained glass medallion symbolizing winter changes to one that looks like spring and the rug on the floor is now green and the actors can take off all that fur.

But Mr. Lithgow has realy been waiting for autumn and when the final scene comes, his whole exuberant production bursts out all over the stage like some overflowing cornucopia, with orange and red and yellow swags and banners and outrageous feather head-dresses and even some grape clusters at Hymen's ears, like hung-over sideburns.

The Actors Bow. Paired off with Miss Walker's lovely Rosalind is Donegah Smith's Orlando. Mr. Smith, who was the brother in "Glass Menagerie," has made a neat leap from Williams to Shakespeare and you'll find his love-lorn Orlando supple and manly.

That other loving pair, Audrey and Touchstone, are Susan Kaslow and Richard Mathews. Audrey is the kind of part that first brought Miss Kaslow to McCarter — last season in "Beggar's Opera" — and we've been hoping ever since to see her back in a comic role, wild of eye and stray of lock. Her Audrey has round, plump, rosy — uh — cheeks, and did you ever see a sexier pair of giggling bare feet?

Mr. Mathews' Touchstone is splendid, and you're surprised because the actor has a pleasant, straight-forward face without comic make-up and you wonder at first whether he slipped into fool's motley by mistake. No mistake: watch and listen during his tongue-twisting "Retort Courteous" speech and see the delicious comedy he and Mr. Lithgow have worked out together.

We were mildly disappointed in Brendan Burke's Jaques, simply because Mr. Burke seems too softly blond for Jaques' dark melancholy, but the ironic lines are beautifully spoken, with almost a musical bit.

McCarter's first integrated company produces some interesting integrated casting. Ed Bernard, who played Nick the architect in "The Village," is well-cast as the Duke's wrestler, thrown by Orlando in an upset match.

It is disturbing, however, to see Rudy Adams as Orlando's elderly servant. Lines you never think of twice when they come from a white actor have an Uncle Tom ring when they come from a black man . . . "Master, go on and I will follow thee to the last gasp, with truth and loyalty," and so on.

But we'd like to end, as the play itself does, with Rosalind and Kathryn Walker because we are sure you will be captured, as we were, by the vivacious charm of this lovely Rosalind.

— Katharine H. Bretnall

"FAHRENHEIT 451"

Film Coming. Francois Truffaut's "Fahrenheit 451" will be shown at McCarter next Tuesday at 8 as the next in the theatre's International Film Series.

The film is Truffaut's version of Ray Bradbury's science fiction story about book burning in a totalitarian society of the future in which books are forbidden.

Oskar Werner plays Bradbury's fireman and Julie Christie plays the dual role of Werner's wife, and a thought ful schoolteacher.

SRO

For Joe. The 11 p.m. concert by Country Joe and the Fish this Saturday, has been cancelled.

Standing-room-only tickets still remain at the McCarter box office for the first Princeton appearance of Country Joe and the Fish at 8 p.m. in Alexander Hall.

YOUNG KING ARTHUR . . .

For Young Audiences. Fresh from a triumphant tour, as the saying goes, the "King to Be" company will play three performances at McCarter during the Thanksgiving vacation.

The play will be given Friday, November 29, at 3:30 p.m. and Saturday at 11 a.m. and again at 3:30. Tickets are now on sale at the box-office.

"King to Be" is a drama about the young King Arthur, written for audiences in the 10-14 age bracket. It was a whacker of a success with youngsters in south Jersey schools, when it toured for six weeks this fall.

Magic effects, of course, with Merlin the Magician, and danger and heroism all over the place, with the evil Morgan Le Fay and the stalwart young King to Be.

The author of "King to Be" is Michael Leech, director of public relations for McCarter.

PENNSYLVANIA DANCES
First In Series.

Twelve good looking young dancers faced os belligerently and impudent ly in various stances. They were dressed, or half dressed in leather, in silver, in fringes and beads, all different, all expressive of the new gene ation.

This theme came back sev eral times during the balle but in between, their dance was to each other, or fo themselves, in the style of old jazz, new rock and individua delight in sheer dance, or pro fessions of puzzlement, of so phisticiation, the men and girls meeting in surprise or dismay, indifference or desire and much of it sheer fun.

We were laughing at the self seriousness when a quick surprise ending turned to war and wounded soldiers and back again to frolic.

A good opening piece for the brigh young Pennsylvani Ballet which danced to a large audience at McCarter Theatre last Sunday afternoon.

"Threnody" means a song of lamentation or dirge, and "Threnody," danced to Ben jamin Britten's "Sinfonia da Requiem" was just that and more, playing grief side by side with action as a second and finally, a third son is lost at sea.

Coming after a lovely classic "pas de deux" danced well in deed by Alba Cazada and Da vid Kloss, this modern ballet by Mary Anthony, revealed an unexpected versatility in style on the part of the Pennsylvan ia Ballet. Far flung arms, wide open turns on bare feet, sudden falls to the ground, contractions of a body crumpled in grief or open in supplic cation, all brought sincerity to the attempt of the Mother, the Sisters and the Townswomen to hold back the Sons from the sea.

Ross Parkes, dancing the last of the three sons, defying the elements and the supplica tions of the women, magnifi cently conveyed his self-as

A good opening piece for the bright young Pennsylvania Ballet which danced to a large audience at McCarter Theatre last Sunday afternoon.

"Threnody" means a song of lamentation or dirge, and "Threnody," danced to Ben jamin Britten's "Sinfonia da Requiem" was just that and more, playing grief side by side with action as a second and finally, a third son is lost at sea.

Coming after a lovely classic "pas de deux" danced well in deed by Alba Cazada and Da vid Kloss, this modern ballet by Mary Anthony, revealed an unexpected versatility in style on the part of the Pennsylvan ia Ballet. Far-flung arms, wide-open turns on bare feet, sudden falls to the ground, contractions of a body crumpled in grief or open in supplication, all brought sincerity to the attempt of the Mother, the Sisters and the Townswomen to hold back the Sons from the sea.

Ross Parkes, dancing the last of the three sons, defying the elements and the supplica tions of the women, magnifi cently conveyed his self-as arrance in wide leaps and splend d turns.

His body s later ten rolling back and forth in the surf, ever closer to the shore as a figure representing the force of the sea, appears to propel and parallel the corpse's mo tion.

It was in the last ballet, Symphony in C by Bizet, ably conducted by Maurice Kaplow, that we found what we always look for in a ballet program, a display of pure classic dance.

Balanchine choreography this time, and at its best, a beautiful interweaving and separating of the corps de bal let and the soloists.

The dancing was bright and clear and exuberant. Of the four movements, the second is the lyrical. In this, Paul Wag ner showed a tenderness and strength in his rapport with his ballerina, Alba Cazada, which was truly moving, as moving as the third movement was delightful, with the ease and grace of Hilda Morales and Jacques Cesbron toward each other.

In fact, this is one of the faces of the developing style of the Pennsylvania Ballet which bears watching: the rap port of dancer to dancer and dancer to audience.

We have two regrets that Princeton's Gretchen Ward Warren, promoted last month to soloist in the Pennsylvania Ballet, was unable to dance due to an injury. And that Barbara Weisberger, artistic director of the company, her self a fine choreographer, did not show one of her ballets. Perhaps she will another time.

The Dance Series, brought to Princeton by McCarter Theatre and the Princeton Bal let Society, is indeed off to a good start with this, its first offering.

And that's what this film is all about. Alan Alda plays Plimpton, and does it extreme ly well; his girl friend and se cretary is pretty Lauren Hut ton; Sugar Ray Robinson is seen in the ring with Alda, as he remembers it.

Frank Gifford, himself, tries to persuade Alda that he is out of his mind when he plans to play with the pros, and Vince Lombardi, himself, refuses to have him around. But Joe Schmidt, the Lions' coach, goes for the idea — and the film from there on is fascinat ing inside look at pro ball. It's funny, exciting — and touch ing.

GARDEN

Camelot (held over, note change in showtime) has much on which to feast the eyes — from the opening wintry forest scene (the snow is not cold in Camelot) to the "lusty month of May" when the whole court frolics.

Perhaps Franco Nero's Lancelot du Lac may fall short of the ideal romantic lover, but Richard Harris makes a satisfying kingly fig ure, no less commanding for his warm human qualities.

And Vanessa Redgrave is to tally captivating as Guene vere — intelligent, mercurial, beautiful in a fine drawn airy way. (She has 40 costume changes.) One first sight of her, wearing a white cloak, hooded and furred, sets the mood of fantasy.

It is an unorthodox and whimsical version of the le gend of Arthur, basted on T. H. White's "The Once and Fu ture King." Among the beau tiful melodies is the title song which is sung and played in the background at intervals throughout the film.

PETER SELLERS holds forth again this week in the comedy about the hippie world, "I Love You, Alice B. Toklas," held over at the RKO Trent.

The Seventh Seal (this Thurs thru Sun.) Francois Truffaut's "Shoot The Piano Player" is a fine example of the neo realistic "new wave" films made in France in the late 1950's and early 1960's. An adaptation of David Goodis's novel, "Down There," it stars Charles Aznavour, Marie Du bois and Nicole Berger.

The story of Charlie Koller, a former concert pianist who welcomes obscurity as a piano player in a Paris bistro, it has been described as both a poetic gangster movie and a modern fairy tale. Good en tertainment, either way.

The Seventh Seal, made in 1956, is classic Ingmar Berg man. It is at once mystical, realistic and poetic in the in imitable Nordic style that separates his films from all others.

PRINCE

Dr. Zhivago (now playing) returns to give fans a chance for a second look. One of the magnificent "mood" films of 1966, it paints the Russian re volution in bold, vigorous strokes. Most dominant of all, is the strong and absorbing story, which has elements of melodrama, suspense and romance.

Omar Sharif is the doctor poet Zhivago, who can see qualities or right in both sides of the civil war; Geraldine Chaplin is Tonya, Zhivago's wife, and Julie Christie is Lara, who becomes the great love of his life. Directed by David Lean, who is especial ly effective in capturing the sense of the harshness of the Russian winters.

ART In Princeton

CHIANG CHE COLLAGES

At Gallery 100. Continuing through the month of November at Gallery 100 is an exhibition by the contemporary Taiwanese artist, Chaung Che.

Born in Peking in 1933, this artist was brought up in a na ively artistic climate with a father who was not only Deputy Director of the National Palace Museum but a talented painter and calligrapher, and two brothers whose careers were prominent in the fields of history, arts and literature. Though deeply influenced by such a broad traditional background, Chaung Che, from the start, was markedly attracted to western methods and expressions of art, mainly those of abstract painting in oils on canvas, and his work has continued in this characte, throughout his years of study and professional endeavor.

However, his ties with the past are not completely lost. Calligraphy, which is so much a part of Oriental art, is also an integral part of his painting, and the poetry of his national heritage causes much of his inspiration.

A recent biography further points out that, temperamentally, Chaung Che "is also close in spirit to many of the great masters of China who lived as hermits in the mountains and who maintained a very simple way of life with an individualistic view of the world." Chaung Che today lives the life of a recluse with an absolute dedication to his art.

Joins Fifth Moon Group. In 1958, he graduated from the Department of Fine Arts of Taiwan Normal University, after which he taught in the Department of Architecture at Tunghai University and soon became a member of the Fifth Moon Group. During the past decade, he has taken part in more than 50 international exhibits from Australia to Brazil, from the Netherlands to Japan and the USA. In 1965 and 1966 he had his first one-man shows in Taipei and several years ago, his work was shown for the first time in Princeton at the Woodrow Wilson Society.

"... ONLY THE MOUNTAINS AND RIVERS REMAIN."
Chuang Che's "Image of Tu Fu" bears the message. "My country has fallen; only the mountains and rivers remain." The country is Taiwan, and the works of the Taiwanese artist, Chuang Che, are now in view at Gallery 100.

Calligraphy and Collage. Gallery 100 has hung Chaung Che's large collages with the free spacing needed by such strong and often violent rendering. Some of which at first glance are more understandable than others. We began with the most traditional, "In Praise of Tu Fu," taken from a poem by the eighth century poet who wrote, "the country has fallen and only the hills and rivers remain." In broad brush strokes, this message is inscribed on the right side of the painting.

On the left, with the same sense of symbol, is drawn the idea of devastated country and inviolate nature. In this interpretation, this painting is reminiscent of but in no way bound by — the traditions of Chinese art. "From Day to Night" seems to be a very much more obscure and is described as "starting a whole chain of thoughts, which strikes true as one tries to work a way from the small light of day into the shadow of its night.

"The Hiding Buddha" is one of the more recent paintings. Heavily composed in abstract forms and highly colored in many reds, it keeps the Buddha altogether hidden.

The collage entitled "My

CHUANG CHE COLLAGES

At Gallery 100. Continuing through the month of November at Gallery 100 is an exhibition by the contemporary Taiwanese artist, Chuang Che.

Born in Peking in 1933, this artist was brought up in a naively artistic climate with a father who was not only Deputy Director of the National Palace Museum but a talented painter and calligrapher; and two brothers whose careers also promised in the field of history, arts and literature. Though deeply influenced by such a broad traditional background, Chuang Che, from the start, was markedly attracted to western methods and expressions of art, mainly those of abstract painting in oils on canvas, and his work has continued in this character throughout his years of study and professional endeavor.

However, his ties with the past are not completely lost. Calligraphy, which is so much a part of Oriental art, is also an integral part of his painting, and the poetry of traditional heritage causes much of his inspiration.

A recent biography further points out that, temperamentally, Chuang Che "is not just a spirit to many of the great masters of China who lived as hermits in the mountains and who maintained a very simple way of life with an individualistic view of the world. Chuang Che today lives the life of a recluse with an absolute dedication to his art.

Joins Fifth Moon Group. In 1958, he graduated from the Department of Fine Arts of Tai wan Normal University, after which he taught in the Department of Architecture at Tunghai University and soon became a member of the Fifth Moon Group. During the past decade, he has taken part in more than 50 international exhibits from Australia to Brazil, from the Netherlands to Japan and the USA. In 1965 and 1966, he had his first one-man shows in Taipei and several years ago, his work was shown for the first time in Princeton at the Woodrow Wilson Society.

Calligraphy and Collage. Gallery 100 has hung Chuang Che's large collages with the free spacing needed by such strong and often violent renderings, some of which at first glance are more understandable than others. We began with the most traditional, "In Praise of Tu Fu," taken from a poem by the eighth century poet who wrote, "the country has fallen and only the hills and rivers remain." In broad brush strokes, this message is inscribed on the right side of the painting.

On the left, with the same sense of symbol, is drawn the idea of devastated country and involute nature in tone and presentation, this painting is reminiscent of but in no way bound by — the traditions of Chinese art. "From Day to Night" seems to be even much more obscure and is described as "starting a whole chain of thoughts," which strikes true as one tries to work a way from the small light of day into the shadow of its night.

"The Hiding Buddha" is one of the more recent paintings. Heavily composed in abstract forms and highly colored in many reds, it keeps the Buddha altogether hidden.

The collage entitled "My

". . . ONLY THE MOUNTAINS AND RIVERS REMAIN."

Chuang Che's "Image of Tu Fu" bears the message. "My country has fallen; only the mountains and rivers remain." The country is Taiwan, and the works of the Taiwanese artist, Chuang Che, are now in view at Gallery 100.

IT'S NEW To Us

ESKIMO TO JENSEN
In Modern-minded Shop. No matter where you look in the new Krosnick Interiors shop, you are caught by the infectious excitement of today's art ists and craftsmen.

From the Hudson Bay area are the sleek fluid Eskimo sculptures, primitive and beautiful in their simplicity.

In counterpoint is the sophisticated glassware of Georg Jensen and Swen Jensen decanters and pitchers and wine bottles, vases and bowls reflecting the right form sweet.

This is something that we've always wanted to do, Mrs. Max Krosnick said the other day in a gentle way looking around at modern books and art objects.

It is an odd commentary that a night of rioting in Trenton ha freed the Krosnicks to open the shop of their dreams. Their store was burned to the ground, the Olden Avenue shop is a fresh start in a new field, an extension, perhaps of their interests at home.

"Max has done a totally magnificent job," his wife adds. "A woman from Princeton came in about a week ago and found the things for her foyer that she said she'd been looking for four years . .

The shop is located at 1784 North Olden, at Parkside Avenue, on the fringe of Trenton. And you'll find that it is completely contemporary — even to Picasso like drawings an translucent plexiglass cubes about 3" high. ($10.) There's a drawing on each side, and as you look at one, you see the reverse of another a be musing effect.

From Hong Kong, there's a striking dining table in natural brown rattan, with six slim stemmed swivel chairs to match. (The interior frames are cast iron, so relaxa.) Also in rattan are the roundest, fattest chairs you've ever seen, each with a round leather cushion in bright color. ($89 + $15 for the cushions). And a matching fat low table.

The most unusual placemats we've ever seen are walnut boards with grooves carved for knife and fork. Made by Digsmed of Denmark, with young modern utensils in the grooves, they were an interesting complement to the rattan dining table.

The Eskimo sculptures of soapstone are an exclusive for this area. Each is marked with the artist's name. The fat seals and figures range in size from about 5" to 14", and in price from $7 up to about $60. "I think they are so beautiful," Mrs. Krosnick says touching a little Eskimo boy on the head.

You'll also find sculptor William Lattimer's "Little People," black cast iron figures such as a little girl with a puppy, a pair of little girls with their arms loosely twined. ($45.) Lattimer's figures are a very loving look at childhood, capturing an essence of a child's constant motion and wonder.

Nearby are the African wall masks, some of wood and some of ceramic. "The children are the ones who adore these," Mrs. Krosnic comments. And in several places on the walls, you'll see the sculpture paintings of Julian Goodstein, a Trenton artist, who uses rigid steel, copper, colonial nails, and so on. He projects the finished piece from the wall so that the shadows are a changing design as the room light changes.

From Maine are the Anderson pottery pieces, interesting bowls and figurines by a husband and wife team, and also a huge black serving tray made from 300,000,000 years old slate.

If you like chess, or know someone who does, Krosnick Interiors has the kind that can be hung on the wall as a decoration when the knight isn't chasing the bishop.

of Akron in stainless steel. The bishop severely slim cross, the knight a shield atop a long, slim rod. Each piece is about 4" high. A smaller set is black cutouts of highly polished steel. ($69.) Both are in walnut hanging cases with a sliding blue plexiglass cover.

In the window is a free-form fountain over 4' high made of copper, brass and silver by Hans Van de Bovenkamp. A man watched the fountain for a half-hour one day," Mrs. Krosnick says in wonder. "He was hypnotized!

There are all sorts of kitchen and serving accessories, including the Copco gourmet pots and pans of porcelainized cast-iron in cheery colors. Mrs. Krosnick is intrigued with their pilet pan for crepes Suzettes.

In fact, she adds, "Wouldn't you like to throw everything out and start over again" That's the feeling I get . . .

45-SECOND ROLLS
And Other Joys. "This is the greatest discovery since fire" the man said as Mrs. G's. opening an electronic Amana oven that fits on a counter top.

"You can cook in it without using dishes, just put the food in there on a paper plate. No dishes to wash," he said happily. "You can cook bacon in four minutes . . . frozen lobster tails in five, and dinner rolls (frozen) in 45 seconds!"

He's hipped on the Amana Radarange and you'll see it at Mrs. G's big appliance store at 1801 North Olden (at Parkway Avenue) or at the center of Trenton store at 152 S Broad.

The Radarange plugs into 115V household current, requiring no electrical adjustments. It measures 15" high, 17" deep and 23" wide. There are two dials. You use one to set the time in minutes, the other is for seconds.

If you have roast beef in mind, the oven you have will cook it at the rate of 25 minutes per pound. The Radarange cuts the time to 7½ minutes per pound. There's a fascinating cook book, neatly tab indexed, to guide you into science's latest favor to women. ($489.95)

Mrs. G. (or more formally, "New Jersey Plumbing & Appliances") also has the big, two oven General Electric electronic range, with four surface units, a rotisserie, and at the top, a fan and air filter.

This is a very swank model — push button controls, self cleaning ovens, the works. Both of its ovens can also be used conventionally, but when you think of hot hors d'oeuvers from frozen to the table in six minutes, a 12 lb turkey (frozen solid) ready to serve in 80 minutes . . . (about $950).

Electronic ovens cook with high frequency energy called "microwaves." The oven stays cool, since the heat generated is in the food itself. What happens is that the microwaves are absorbed by the food, causing the food molecules to vibrate against each other, resulting in friction. This friction creates heat within the food and zip cooks it. Well, now you know.

HEAD FOR THE SLOPES
In Windshirts & Boot Pants. Big news this season in the ski world are (1) over the-boot pants for men and ladies; (2) down-filled parkas for the kids; (3) toasty warm wind shirts in 3/4 length for the girls to wear on the lift; (4) Head Ski's junior-size skis and (5) those big, sexy Gusti hats, and (6) "warm-up" pants.

They've all just arrived at Capitol Sporting Goods, 923 Olden Avenue, Trenton, and as Joe Lombardo says, "You need to pole vault to get through here."

First thing you see when you wade in (and it's a wonderful place) is pile after pile of imported sweaters for men and women — big, roomy, warm sweaters from Turkey, Greece, Austria, Italy, Germany. The variety is so great that you're

Droopless Tress

The art of making artificial Christmas trees has reached the point where many of them match the real thing in appearance and luxuriant fullness. They never droop, and some of them can be taken apart for storage until next year.

At the Met-Wood Floral Manufacturers in Trenton (North Olden & New York Avenues) you'll find bushy scotch pines, spruces and Canadian pines ranging from 4½ ft. to 12 ft. high. The take-apart pines cost $13.88 for a 6 footer. Prices of the trees range from $10.88 up to $119. The trees are incredibly realistic.

Met-Wood also has all kinds of artificial greens in sprays and "ropes." There are high-backed wicker sleds for your table top, ready to be filled with greens, or fruits, or christmas cards. ($1.52 to $3.23) not likely to meet yourself coming down the bend.

And baskets of tree ornaments, including huge gold en apples and pears for a one-of-a-kind tree. The firm, of coorse specializes in artificial flowers, and you'll be hard put to decide among the hundreds of varieties, bushel basket by bushel basket.

The windshirts are for girls only. "Men don't use that 3/4 length." Made of nylon in great colors, with a belt and a pouch pocket for your lipstick and mad money. ($13.95)

Children's parkas — Capitol has many varieties, but we spied a cany woman from Princeton buying the new down filled types that are so light and extra warm. (Prices range $34.95 to $44.95)

Capitol has some beautiful, coordinated vests of insulated Dacron, designed with a pouch pocket and high buttonss. It looks great with turtleneck sweaters.

About the over the boot pants (this was needed years ago); they are put on over your boots and zip at the outside seam at the ankle. Made of the usual stretch wool and nylon combination that fits as well.

For your youngster who's already a good skier, the Junior Head will make a nice present. The cost is $75 to $90, and the ski is made of the same fine workmanship as the adult ski.

Speaking of adults, Capitol has the new Head "320" for hard-packed snow — "excellent for Eastern skiing," Joe Lombardo announces.

Back in the ladies' fashion shop at Capitol, you'll find Mrs. Lombardo, further proof that sportsmen always marry pretty women. She has some exciting varieties of after ski boots — a tremendous selection, really — in fur, or fur and suede, or suede. The choice will be a hard one.

There are parkas interlined with pure Canadian goose down. "Down breathes well," Marie Lombardi tells us. "You can go from the very cold into a warm restaurant . . ."

Also the Val Hughes of Canada 3/4 coats in Indian weaves, hand woven shaggy wools in short coats from Austria and Greece. The selection is delightful.

And the Gosti hats — high crown, wide brim, chin tie, with a snap that holds the brim up on one side, Anzac style. Made of nylon in four colors with parkas to match.

of Akron in stainless steel. The bishop severely slim cross, the knight a shield atop a long, slim rod. Each piece is about 4" high. A smaller set is block cutouts of highly polished steel. ($69.) Both are in walnut hanging cases with a sliding blue plexiglass cover.

In the window is a free form fountain over 4' high made of copper, brass and silver by Hans Van de Bovenkamp. "A man watched the fountain for a half hour one day," Mrs. Krosnick says in wonder. "He was hypnotized!"

There are all sorts of kitchen and serving accessories, including the Copco gourmet pots and pans of porcelainized cast-iron in cheery colors. Mrs. Krosnick is intrigued with their pleat pan for crepes Suzettes.

In fact, she adds, "Wouldn't you like to throw everything out and start over again? That's the feeling I get."

45-SECOND ROLLS

And Other Joys. "This is the greatest discovery since fire!" the man said at Mrs. G's, opening an electronic Amana oven that fits on a counter top.

"You can cook in it without using dishes, just put the food in there on a paper plate. No dishes to wash," he said happily. "You can cook bacon in four minutes . . . frozen lobster tails in five, and dinner rolls (frozen) in 45 seconds!"

He's hipped on the Amana Radarange and you'll see it at Mrs. G's big appliance store at 1801 North Olden (at Parkway Avenue) or at the center of Trenton store at 152 S. Broad.

The Radarange plugs into 115V household current, requiring no electrical adjustments. It measures 15" high, 17" deep and 23" wide. There are two dials. You use one to set the time in minutes, the other is for seconds.

If you have roast beef in mind, the oven you have will cook it at the rate of 25 minutes per pound. The Radarange cuts the time to 7½ minutes per pound. There's a fascinating cook book, neatly tab-indexed, to guide you into science's latest favor to women. ($189.95)

Mrs. G. (or more formally, "New Jersey Plumbing & Appliances") also has the big, two-oven General Electric electronic range, with four surface units, a rotisserie, and at the top, a fan and air filter.

This is a very swank model — push button controls, self-cleaning ovens, the works. Both of its ovens can also be used conventionally, but when you think of hot hors d'oeuvers from frozen to the table in six minutes, a 12 lb turkey (frozen solid) ready to serve in 80 minutes . . . (about $950).

Electronic ovens cook with high frequency energy called "microwaves." The oven stays cool, since the heat generated is in the food itself. What happens is that the microwaves are absorbed by the food, causing the food molecules to vibrate against each other, resulting in friction. This friction creates heat within the food and zip cooks it. Well, now you know.

HEAD FOR THE SLOPES

In Windshirts & Boot Pants. Big news this season in the ski world are (1) over-the-boot pants for men and ladies; (2) down-filled parkas for the kids; (3) toasty warm wind shirts in 3/4 length for the girls to wear on the lift; (4) Head Ski's junior size skis and (5) those big, sexy Gusti hats, and (6) "warm-up" pants.

They've all just arrived at Capitol Sporting Goods, 923 Olden Avenue, Trenton, and as Joe Lombardo says, "You need to pole vault to get through here."

First thing you see when you wade in (and it's a wonderful place) is pile after pile of imported sweaters for men and women — big, roomy, warm sweaters from Turkey, Greece, Austria, Italy, Germany. The variety is so great that you're not likely to meet yourself coming down the bend.

The windshirts are for girls only. "Men don't use that 3/4 length." Made of nylon in great colors, with a belt and a pouch pocket for your lip stick and mad money. ($13.95)

Children's parkas — Capitol has many varieties, but we spied a cany woman from Princeton buying the new down-filled types that are so light and extra warm. (Prices range $34.95 to $44.95)

Capitol has some beautiful, coordinated vests of insulated Dacron, designed with a pouch pocket and high buttonss. It looks great with turtleneck sweaters.

About the over-the-boot pants (this was needed years ago): they are put on over your boots and zip at the outside seam at the ankle. Made of the usual stretch wool and nylon combination that fits so well.

For your youngster who's already a good skier, the Junior Head will make a nice present. The cost is $75 to $90, and the ski is made of the same fine workmanship as the adult ski.

Speaking of adults, Capitol has the new Head "320" for hard-packed snow — "excellent for Eastern skiing," Joe Lombardo announces.

Back in the ladies' fashion shop at Capitol, you'll find Mrs. Lombardo, further proof that sportsmen always marry pretty women. She has some exciting varieties of after-ski boots — a tremendous selection, really — in fur, or fur and suede, or suede. The choice will be a hard one.

There are parkas interlined with pure Canadian goose down. "Down breathes well," Marie Lombardi tells us. "You can go from the very cold into a warm restaurant . . ."

Also the Val Hughes of Canada 3/4 coats in Indian weaves, hand woven shaggy wools in short coats from Austria and Greece. The selection is delightful.

And the Gusti hats — high crown, wide brim, chin tie with a snap that holds the brim up on one side, Anzac style. Made of nylon in four colors with parkas to match.

Droopless Tress

The art of making artificial Christmas trees has reached the point where many of them match the real thing in appearance and luxuriant fullness. They never droop, and some of them can be taken apart for storage until next year.

At the Met-Wood Floral Manufacturers in Trenton (North Olden & New York Avenues) you'll find bushy scotch pines, spruces and Canadian pines ranging from 4½ ft. to 12 ft. high. The take-apart pines cost $13.88 for a 6-footer. Prices of the trees range from $10.88 up to $119. The trees are incredibly realistic.

Met-Wood also has all kinds of artificial greens in sprays and "ropes." There are high-backed wicker sleds for your table top, ready to be filled with greens, or fruits, or christmas cards. ($1.52 to $3.23)

And baskets of tree ornaments, including huge golden apples and pears for a one-of-a-kind tree. The firm, of course specializes in artificial flowers, and you'll be hard put to decide among the hundreds of varieties, bushel basket by bushel basket.

Kenneth Michael Commended.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The discussion of teenage concerns at the November 14 meeting of the Princeton Pastors' Association led inevitably to consideration of the role of the principal of the high school, Mr. Kenneth Michael, and of remarks recently attributed to him in the press (Town Topics, Nov. 14.) The precision of the report notwithstanding, the Princeton Pastors' Association wishes to express its support for Mr. Michael's sincere and continuing efforts to achieve reconciliation between conflicting racial factions and to control the traffic in and abuse of narcotics among some Princeton teenagers who are also students at Princeton High School. The teenagers whom Mr. Michael is given to deal with are primarily the product of our total community: its families, churches, clubs —and nothing less than a total community effort at renewal will alter the conditions of which racial combatants and narcotics abusers are but a product.

Clearly, we have not to date done all we could have, either to eliminate the conditions or to support Mr. Michael in his efforts to cope with the results of our inattention.

The Princeton
Pastors' Association
Elliot A. Daley, Sec

Praise for Mr. Michael.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I will direct my letter in the students, the parents, the teachers, the Board of Education, the administration, and all those directly and indirectly related to Princeton Regional Schools, and specifically Princeton High School.

I write in reaction to a recent article you presented in your publication, dated November 14, 1968, about a dialogue between Mr. Kenneth Michael (Principal of Princeton High School) and a group at Trinity Episcopal Church in Princeton New Jersey.

I will not question the ethics of a newspaper in using exploitation and small time muck raking, nor do I question the context from which the article to which I refer arose. I will deal, instead, with a man who has been wrongly portrayed by this publication and grossly stifled or squashed by those surrounding him.

I graduated from Princeton High School with the Class of 1961. During my four years there I saw the administration change leadership, officially twice. During those changes and during my four years, I witnessed a drastic change in the approach to education there.

The change was from an educational system, to a mass production line, in which students, teachers and administration were forced to become machines, and were simultaneously drained of human feelings and human involvement. A few fought the change, but most conformed. Only one man refused to let education be drained of the vital element of humanity there. That was Mr. Michael.

And last week, as I read your article, I realized that even he was finally being forced to give up his human approach, in exasperation, as a result of the bureaucratic disease which has gripped that school system. I felt sick as I read the article and realized his desperation, and the school's last gasp of human breath.

I remembered during my year there, watching him pace the sidelines of football games, feeling the agony and ecstasy, the same gut feelings of every player on that field. I don't remember many other administrators coming to those games. And as President of the Athletic Association in my senior year, I can recall some of the conversations I had with that man.

For some reason his door was always open, and he always had time to talk to me and other students like me. Sometimes he was in the cafeteria during lunches just to talk to whomever felt the need to talk to a person.

He was always receptive to student ideas and pleas, but more often then not he was overruled by the bureaucrats. And now, it appears those bureaucrats have finally destroyed the determination Mr. Michael felt for human involvement.

I appeal to all Princetonians to realize the true value of human involvement in education, and prevent its death. To me, Mr. Michael, the epitomy of human involvement in Princeton's educational system is no more a mere title, but rather pleading for human help and understanding.

For your own sakes, for his sake, for the sake of education, turn off the bureaucratic mechanism, and stretch forth a human hand to education.

Editor's Note: TOWN TOPICS welcomes Mr. Conover's letter in support of Mr. Michael. However, his charge of "muck raking" is ill advised. To report accurately the remarks of an individual with no attempt to demean his character hardly substantiates an accusation of that nature.

Borough Election Reviewed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Next only to protecting life, the most important Borough operations are seivers, streets, buildings. For this technical work, easily the most-needed competencies are those of engineer and architect — exactly the professions practiced by the two retiring Borough Councilmen (one also police commissioner).

One political party ran that engineer who as chairman of the regional sewer commission would bring the most expertise possible to the Council. It also ran a practicing architect, exactly as needed. Both are of excellent character.

The other Party ran two individuals, also of excellent character — with the com potencies of a housewife and a minister. Let me hasten to state that my mother was the former and my father was the latter (I love my parents; I respect their vocations; the character of the newly-elected is beyond reproach).

But this article is inspired by Town Topics (Nov. 14) citing local Democrats' pride in vote getting techniques and "the head of the ticket" — rather than on what they sought for the community. Did many otherwise intelligent citizens vote the "straight Democratic ticket"? (shades of Boss Hague!)

Wherein are the new liberals better than the old conservatives in this respect? Even alleged hill billy Arkansas voters were able to split their ballots: Wallace, AIP; Fulbright, Democrat; Rockefeller, Republican.

Were there many graduate students and new instructors voting down the line, even when they don't know local needs? (They had a better case for president and Congress than locally.)

In subsequent elections will Democrats offer the needed competencies as the Borough Republicans have done for many, many years? Might they even offer the self-same Jacobs and Erdman bi-partisan support? They have the solace that they outdrew their Republican ticket-mates for President, Congress and Freeholder.

But their main contribution Jacobs and Erdman have not run in vain if they will have caused a number of citizens to re-think individual competencies versus "voting the ticket straight"; and to weigh holding local elections apart from those for president and governor. May the Township's Schafer and Peskin also draw this solace. They, too, well deserved local rather than national consideration.

The writer identifies himself as a Township resident and an avowed Republican. But, hopefully, this case, once presented, largely speaks for itself.

Registration Figures.
To The Editor of Town Topics:

Your wrap-up of the local elections (November 14) contained a misleading statement which repeated a claim you had made earlier in the fall when we were all too busy to correct it. District 3 in the Township where "voting age students and young faculty live" was not where most of the new registration was.

In 1966, the official roster showed 715 eligible voters. This year the official tabulation was 774 — give or take a few — for a gain of about 60 voters.

Our unofficial tabulation showed, due to the door by door count of a dilligent committeewoman, Lucy Hackney, that no less than 145 qualified voters had moved. Something like 610 were qualified to vote. 582 appeared (over 420 voted for Floyd and Hartmann), and that is over a 95% turn out.

Actually, the biggest jump in registration was in District 2, where about 1100 were listed as opposed to 880 in 1966. About 70% of that jump represents the graduate housing in Lawrence Apts. (20% had moved before the Nov. 5 election), but the remainder represents about 50 new registrations in greater District 2.

One of the largest jumps in Township registration, therefore, came in District 9, which contains no University housing. In 1966, District 9 had 680 voters. The official tally this year is 843, an increase of over 160 votes.

The Republican Captain, Mrs. Mathey, may be right in claiming a lot of Republicans didn't go to the polls, but a lot of Democrats did, and No. 9 is no longer a "solid Republican district." We are going to have to fight over it every year. And for Township voters, regardless of party, the appearance of the two-party system on the local scene represents the biggest gain of all.

VWs Not at Fault.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I wish to register my strong objection to your coverage of auto accidents (page 4, Nov. 14) as being slanted and condemning by inference, particularly when such action is so completely unwarranted by the facts.

In the article referred to, you report eight separate accidents involving 14 cars. Apparently, two of these cars were Volkswagens; the other 12 were not.

In one accident involving a Volkswagon, careful reading (it is necessary to go back over your story several times to realize how misleading it is) reveals that a young man driving on a road with which he was not familiar, in the middle of the night, at an unknown speed, went off the road, struck a tree and turned over. Apparently, injury to the driver and his young woman companion were not very serious, since they were treated (evidently first aid, not stitches, etc.) and released.

The manner in which you have presented the story, however, can easily lead the casual reader, as most of us are, to conclude that the accident happened in the daylight of Saturday morning and that it was the car, not the driver, which caused the accident. I think any unbiased observer, going strictly on known facts, would have to conclude that this accident would have occurred regardless of the make of car being driven.

The second story tells of a lady turning to her passenger to talk, going through a stop sign into an intersection and being struck by a truck. Obviously, the kind of car she was driving is completely irrelevant, but you name it as a Volkswagen.

The reports of the other six accidents, involving many more cars, tell of skidding out of control, severe and total damage to vehicles and injury to occupants. NEVERTHELESS, YOU HEADLINE AND ALSO NAME THE VWs, BUT DO NOT NAME ONE OTHER MAKE OF CAR.

I submit that your reporting in this instance is unfair and misleading. Without making a statement, it invites the reader to form the completely erroneous conclusion, from the headline, further identification and

Your wrap-up of the local elections (November 14) contained a misleading statement which repeated a claim you had made earlier in the fall when we were all too busy to correct it. District 3 in the Township where "voting age students and young faculty live" was not where most of the new registration was.

In 1966, the official roster showed 715 eligible voters. This year the official tabulation was 774 — give or take a few — for a gain of about 60 votes.

Our unofficial tabulation showed, due to the door by door count of a diligent committeewoman, Lucy Hackney, that no less than 145 qualified voters had moved. Something like 610 were qualified to vote, 582 appeared (over 420 voted for Floyd and Hartmann), and that is over a 95% turn out.

Actually, the biggest jump in registration was in District 2, where about 1100 were listed as opposed to 880 in 1966. About 70% of that jump represents the graduate housing in Lawrence Apts. (20% had moved before the Nov. 5 election), but the remainder represents about 50 new registrations in greater District 2.

One of the largest jumps in Township registration, therefore, came in District 9, which contains no University housing. In 1966, District 9 had 680 voters. The official tally this year is 843, an increase of over 160 votes.

The Republican Captain, Mrs. Mathey, may be right in claiming a lot of Republicans didn't go to the polls, but n lot of Democrats did, and No. 9 is no longer a "solid Republican district." We are going to have to fight over it every year. And for Township voters, regardless of party, the appearance of the two-party system on the local scene represents the biggest gain of all.

VWs Not at Fault.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I wish to register my strong objection to your coverage of auto accidents (page 4, Nov. 14) as being slanted and condemning by inference, particularly when such action is so completely unwarranted by the facts.

In the article referred to, you report eight separate accidents involving 14 cars. Apparently, two of these cars were Volkswagens; the other 12 were not.

In one accident involving a Volkswagon, careful reading (it is necessary to go back over your story several times to realize how misleading it is) reveals that a young man driving on a road with which he was not familiar, in the middle of the night, at an unknown speed, went off the road, struck a tree and turned over. Apparently, injury to the driver and his young woman companion were not very serious, since they were treated (evidently first aid, not stitches, etc.) and released.

The manner in which you have presented the story, however, can easily lead the casual reader, as most of us are, to conclude that the accident happened in the daylight of Saturday morning and that it was the car, not the driver, which caused the accident. I think any unbiased observer, going strictly on known facts, would have to conclude that this accident would have occurred regardless of the make of car being driven.

The second story tells of a lady turning to her passenger to talk, going through a stop sign into an intersection and being struck by a truck. Obviously, the kind of car she was driving is completely irrelevant, but you name it as a Volkswagen.

The reports of the other six accidents, involving many more cars, tell of skidding out of control, severe and total damage to vehicles and injury to occupants. NEVERTHELESS, YOU HEADLINE AND ALSO NAME THE VWs BUT DO NOT NAME ONE OTHER MAKE OF CAR.

I submit that your reporting in this instance is unfair and misleading. Without making a statement, it invites the reader to form the completely erroneous conclusion, from the headline, further identification and Encouragement For Kingston.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

"The demand by Princeton for apartments" has been given as a reason for advocating the building of 645 apartments near Kingston on the Sister tract. (Daily Home News, Nov. 15, p. 25, reporting statement of Councilman Richard Driver).

If this is intented to insinuate that we in Princeton approve and desire such over-building in nearby Kingston it is a highly misinformed premise.

We do not want the estimated "1,200 cars" added to our traffic jams. We do not wish to support new apartment-dwellers in our already crowded hospital. We do not want our Post Office further cluttered by their Princeton addressed mail (using our rural route).

Nor do we like to see the surrounding irreplaceable country bulldozed. Mr. Driver would do well to bring himself up-to-date on scientific thinking and ecological planning.

Mr. Driver accuses the Kingstonians of "being deluded with the idea of sovereignty," because they wish to save their town, and then flings forth the dictatorial pronouncement, "Your area is going to change. We've gone over that many many times." I can only hope that the people of Franklin Township will take such behavior in hand at their next election.

I feel sure that many Princetonians agree with my wish to encourage Kingston in its valiant struggle to preserve not only its beautiful natural surroundings, but the character of its town as well.

"I COULDN'T BELIEVE IT!" Like many Princetonians, Kevin Delaney's first reaction to the assassination of President Kennedy five years ago this week was one of shock and disbelief. "It took quite a while for it to sink in," he said. (Staff Photo)

Question Of The Week

Question: This week marks the fifth anniversary of the assassination of President Kennedy. Do you recall where you were and what your reaction was when you first heard the news?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

Kevin Delaney, 52 Jefferson Road, assistant manger, Nassau Liquors: I was working at the University Store in the book department unloading books. My first reaction was I couldn't believe it. It took quite a while for it to sink in.

Bernard Katacinski, Robbinsville, scientific copywriter: I was in St. Mary's College in Michigan at the time. Everybody was shocked. We didn't believe it at first. The news was sort of slow in coming. It happened during class and all we heard were mostly rumors. We had to wait to get back to our rooms and turn on the radio. There was just gloom for the next three days.

Leon Kamin, 1 College Road, associated with Princeton University: I was walking through a corridor in a building at McMaster University in Hamilton, Ontario. My reaction was just, "Oh, my God!" Surprise and astonishment. We didn't know when we first heard whether it was fatal or not.

Miss Marie Isop, Clifton Heights, Pa., decorator for Nassau Interiors: Sure I remember. I had just come home from classes from college. It was in the afternoon and the radio was on. I was mortified and filled with disbelief over the fact that it really was possible.

Marriott Nadler, Trenton, president of dry cleaning and laundry firm: I know exactly where I was. I was riding from Trenton to Princeton. I turned the radio on and I heard the announcement that President Kennedy had been shot. I said someone's crazy. This is ridiculous. I thought it was one of these Orson Wells things, because the first thing I heard was the announcement of his being shot. I kept it on and when I realized he really had been shot I pulled off to the side of the road to find out if he had been killed.

Don Fletcher, 1941 Hall, University freshman: I was in India and I was incredulous. Then, it was night, and my dad told me he had heard it on the radio. I was in bed at the time. There was a definite, marked reaction among the Indian people. They really liked Kennedy. Every house would have a picture of Nehru, Ghandi, Shastri—and Kennedy. He was probably the only American president who managed to identify with them.

Mrs. Mary Zeek, Kendall Park, bookkeeper: Yes, I was in North Dakota at the time working in a lumber yard office. My reaction? It was disbelief. I thought it was a joke, some horrible joke.

Joseph Gnandt, Robbinsville, psychology department, Princeton University: I was in the shop running a lathe down at the stadium area when I heard it over the radio. I was shocked. It was unbelievable at first. Then as time went on and you realized it was true, you were hopeful that he would live. I was in a state of shock the rest of the day.

Edwin Schneider, Millstone River Apartments, associated with Creative Playthings: I was home in New York City and my reaction was one of absolute shock and profound sorrow.

Mrs. Robert McGuirk, Roosevelt, housewife: I was visiting my father near Albany, New York, when I heard the news. We were just shocked and amazed. We just couldn't believe it. We rushed around to talk with other people about it.

James Watson, 84 Yorkshire Drive, Cranbury, sales manager, Quantas Airlines: It was disbelief, and I was in the Red Baron Bar on West 42nd Street in New York.

Oliver Banks, Nassau Street, student: I was in Switzerland going to an international college and I remember being amazed at how powerfully the news hit the Swiss as well as how strongly I was struck by it. It hit hard, as if a great Swiss leader had been assassinated. The reaction was immediate and it cut across all levels. We first heard the news over an armed forces station. I didn't believe it at first.

Mrs. Pauline Waage, 17 Leavitt Lane, bookkeeper at Firestone Library: I was at work in Firestone Library and I just didn't believe it. As I remember it, someone called one of my co-workers and told her. Our reaction was just disbelief, really.

The news was sort of slow in coming. . . it happened during class and all we heard were mostly rumors. We had to wait to get back to our rooms and turn on the radio. There was just gloom for the next three days.

Leon Kamin, 1 College Road, associated with Princeton University: I was walking through a corridor in a building at McMaster University in Hamilton, Ontario. My reaction was just, "Oh, my God!" Surprise and astonishment. We didn't know when we first heard whether it was fatal or not.

Miss Marie Isop, Clifton Heights, Pa., decorator for Nassau Interiors: Sure I remember. I had just come home from classes from college. It was in the afternoon and the radio was on. I was mortified and filled with disbelief over the fact that it really was possible.

Marriott Nadler, Trenton, president of dry cleaning and laundry firm: I know exactly where I was. I was riding from Trenton to Princeton. I turned the radio on and I heard the announcement that President Kennedy had been shot. I said someone's crazy. This is ridiculous. I thought it was one of these Orson Wells things, because the first thing I heard was the announcement of his being shot. I kept it on and when I realized he really had been shot I pulled off to the side of the road to find out if he had been killed.

Don Fletcher, 1941 Hall, University freshman: I was in India and I was incredulous. Then, it was night, and my dad told me he had heard it on the radio. I was in bed at the time. There was a definite, marked reaction among the Indian people. They really liked Kennedy. Every house would have a picture of Nehru, Ghandi, Shastri—and Kennedy. He was probably the only American president who managed to identify with them.

Mrs. Mary Zeek, Kendall Park, bookkeeper; Yes, I was in North Dakota at the time working in a lumber yard office. My reaction? It was disbelief. I thought it was a joke, some horrible joke.

Joseph Gnandt, Robbinsville, psychology department, Princeton University: I was in the shop running a lathe down at the stadium area when I heard it over the radio. I was shocked. It was unbelievable at first. Then as time went on and you realized it was true, you were hopeful that he would live. I was in a state of shock the rest of the day.

Edwin Schneider, Millstone River Apartments, associated with Creative Playthings: I was home in New York City and my reaction was one of absolute shock and profound sorrow.

Mrs. Robert McGuirk, Roosevelt, housewife: I was visiting my father near Albany, New York, when I heard the news. We were just shocked and amazed. We just couldn't believe it. We rushed around to talk with other people about it.

James Watson, 84 Yorkshire Drive, Cranbury, sales manager, Quantas Airlines: It was disbelief, and I was in the Red Baron Bar on West 42nd Street in New York.

Oliver Banks, Nassau Street, student: I was in Switzerland going to an international college and I remember being amazed at how powerfully the news hit the Swiss as well as how strongly I was struck by it. It hit hard, as if a great Swiss leader had been assassinated. The reaction was immediate and it cut across all levels. We first heard the news over an armed forces station. I didn't believe it at first.

Mrs. Pauline Waage, 17 Leavitt Lane, bookkeeper at Firestone Library: I was at work in Firestone Library and I just didn't believe it. As I remember it, someone called one of my co-workers and told her. Our reaction was just disbelief, really.

TRAIL ENDS FOR TIGERS

With Carnell Game Saturday. The most puzzling and most frustrating Princeton football team in the post World War II era will take the field Saturday for the final time. Capping the season-long series of unexpected developments is the ironic twist that it has a chance to finish in the Ivy League's first division—possibly as high as a tie for third place.

There is irony in such a possibility because the Tigers' entry to the 1967 Ivy derby played considerably better football than the present team, finished with a highly respectable 6-3 mark and yet could do no better than a fourth-place tie in the standings. If Princeton defeats the Ithacans in Palmer Stadium Saturday and Dartmouth tops Penn at Franklin Field, the Tigers, the Indians and the Quakers will have identical 4-3 marks.

Just as it has been nine years since Princeton had a losing season, it was in 1959 that the Tigers last suffered back-to-back defeats at the hands of Harvard and Yale. Saturday's contest accordingly poses the question: Do they care enough to get up off the floor and go out a winner? (For the record, the 1959 team couldn't make it, losing its final game to Dartmouth, 12-7.)

Accorded a chance to finish among the Ivies' top four again—after attaining a third place berth last fall—Cornell has experienced more disappointments this season than Princetan. Paradoxically enough, the Red has defeated two of the five teams which have topped the Tigers. Rutgers and Colgate, but in league competition it has beaten only Brown while losing to Penn, Yale, Harvard, Columbia and Dartmouth.

Offense in Trouble. Those who saw the well-coached, imaginative attack that Cornell threw at Princeton in mid-October a year ago have found it difficult to believe that the explosive power generated by the veteran backfield has largely vanished. The Cornell record book had six new entries made it in the day the Red Wann, 47-13, to hand the Tigers their worst beating in Ivy history.

The answer is inability of the line, which does not include a single 1967 starter, to clear the way for the ball carriers and to do its share in defending against a pass rush. Cornell is averaging less than 300 yards in total offense and quarterback Bill Robertson, who set five college passing records last year, is well under 50% in completions and has had ten interceptions. In the 27-6 loss to Dartmouth Saturday, he was 2 for 10 when Coach Jack Musick benched him in favor of junior Bill Arthur.

Chris Ritter, Ed Zak and Jim Heeps, all of whom had standout days against the Tigers last fall, alternate as the halfbacks. Dave Morris, a 220-lb fullback, is out with a shoulder injury and has been replaced by Art McCullen, considerably lighter at 190.

The line has a pair of tackles who average 235 but of the seven players up front, three are juniors and three are sophomores. Maybe next year . . .

"HERE I AM, YOU GUYS, OVER HERE!" Tailback Scott MacBean seems to be letting Yale's two big tackles to go his whereabouts as he moves downfield against Elis. Returning to lineup after missing two games with a back injury, MacBean was credited by Coach Dick Colman with playing "a superb game." Tigers were overpowered, however, losing, 42-17, for Princeton's first defeat in Yale Bowl since 1960. (Bob Matthews Photo) are there but the constant pressure has taken its toll. A loser to Harvard and Yale, in common with the rest of the league, Cornell could not handle Columbia or Dartmouth either. Although beset with problems virtually all season, it seems clear that Princeton's offense can take charge in this final game if it can muster the determination to do so.

ONE OFFENSE SUPERB But It Wasn't Princeton's. Although slower than usual to reach its blistering pace, Yale's attack broke Saturday's game in the Bowl wide open before the contest was three-quarters finished. A 20-point third period demolished what faint hopes Princeton might have had after a satisfactory first half performance, and the Blue went on to record a 42-10-17 triumph.

It was readily apparent beforehand that no matter how much progress the Tigers' defense had made, no Ivy League team has the personnel to stop Brian Dowling, Calvin Hill and the big Yale ends, Bruce Weinstein and Lew Roney. Accordingly, the degree of success that Princeton might achieve depended on the ability of its offensive unit to control the ball — to keep the unstoppable Eli machine on the bench.

When Princeton took the opening kickoff and drove 73 yards in a dozen plays for a touchdown, the game plan worked to perfection. Better than a third of the period was erased from the clock in the process, and Dowling was still waiting for a chance to get on the field.

While the outcome hung in the balance, however, that was the only solid shot fired by the Tiger offense. Four times during the afternoon, Princeton had the ball no more than 20 yards from the Yale goal line, and its total output from all those opportunities was three points. One scoring chance was fumbled away, two others were stopped on downs (one of them after a third-and-one situation), and the other was capped by Arnie Holzberg's 20-yard field goal.

The Other Side of the Coin. Yale, meanwhile, began by barely keeping alive its feat of scoring in every quarter when it twice failed to move the ball but then went 54 yards in three plays for a TD with 9 seconds left. It was a 30-yard Dowling-to-Hill aerial that made it 7-6 for the Blue and left the visitors playing their familiar catch-up ball for the final three periods.

Dowling's new role as a safety man on punt returns brought the ball 32 yards nearer the Princeton goal following a Tiger kick by Dick Bracken and six plays covered the remaining 26 yards. This time the Eli quarterback ran it in himself and then passed for a two-point conversion.

The Tigers went 55 yards to the Yale 4 as the clock ran out, settling for three points just before the half ended. Statistically, they had outgained the Blue, tailback Scott MacBean had outpassed Brian Dowling and the outcome hinged on the extent to which they could keep the Elis in sight.

The answer came after the home team had gone 77 yards in 11 plays to open the third quarter, again adding a two-point conversion as it almost appeared to toy with the Tiger defenders. Trailing by 23-9, the Tigers drove downfield from their 26, MacBean passing for 18 to end Mike Garton to make it third and one from the Yale 16.

Another pass was called, a solid decision if the offense is good enough to make short yardage on fourth down from an obvious running play. This year, however, the Tigers are not. The pass missed, the full-back wedge missed, and the ball game was over right there.

Two more Yale touchdowns followed before the quarter ended on drives of 85 and 65 yards; in the final period, the victors went 98 yards for their last TD after a penalty set them back on their 2. Dowling and Hill accounted for all six either running or passing.

Rolling for 417 yards on offense, exclusive of another 108 on kick returns, Yale was the perfect example of a team so powerful that the mistakes it commits are not costly. The Elis lost a fumble and had two of Dowling's passes picked off but still won very much as they pleased.

Tigers Show No Progress. When Princeton was upset by Rutgers to start its 1968 season, Dick Colman commented that defeat was largely traceable to the fact that "we couldn't run four plays in a row without making some horrible mistake." Seven games later, the Tigers were still guilty of poor timing in the backfield, of a fumble that cost possession on the Yale 17, and of 76 yards more in penalties.

The total yardage lost by rules infractions is now close to 400. If the numerous sizable gains erased when the penalties are paced off are added to that, the figure is undoubtedly closer to 800. More often than not this fall, the Tigers have done as much to beat themselves as the opposing defense has been able to achieve.

A release last week from the Yale sports publicity office reported that "Brian Dowling, Calvin Hill and 27 other Yale seniors will make their farewell appearance in the Bowl Saturday." There is little doubt that with the Class of 1969, the Elis have had all their eggs in one basket, and their two-year dynasty in the Ivy League will end next fall, assuming their ability to trim Harvard Saturday.

While there are a scattering of capable juniors and sophomores at New Haven, overall strength for the past two years is markedly sub par. A year ago, Princeton's freshman eleven topped its Eli counterparts, 48 to 20, and last week, the Class of '72 won at New Haven 54 to 12.

As the late Charlie Caldwell pointed out when he had a pair of 9-and-0 teams, "Sooner or later, the wheel will turn full circle," and now, in the vicinity of the Yale Bowl, it is apparently ready to move.

QUICK LOOK AT CORNELL

OFFENSE: Rebuilt line has failed to function and lack of scoring punch has been largely responsible for 1-5 Ivy record. Running and passing games both below 1967 performances.

DEFENSE: Largely veteran material but has not been able to absorb all the stress placed on it by sub-par offensive unit.

CHIEF ASSET: All-senior back field has experience and potentially balanced attack which exploded in Tigers' face a year ago.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Riding from ashes of disappointing season against favored opponent in game away from home. Cornell hasn't won here since 1956.

TYPE OF ATTACK: Wing-T with balanced line.

Ivy League Forecast

Princeton over Cornell. Thin edge to thin offense.

Yale over Harvard. Eli offense tops Crimson defense.

Columbia over Brown. Domres finishes big.

Penn over Dartmouth. Unbelievable, but this is 1968.

It takes a week to make the car. And 3 years to make the mechanic.

Oh the difference between a bug and a man.

In just seven days a piece of steel evolves into a sturdy Volkswagen.

But only after three years does a raw recruit evolve into a bona fide Volkswagen mechanic.

It's not an easy process.

He starts with a lawly doorknob and works his way up to the electrical system. (With an eagle-eyed supervisar over his shoulder.)

He takes every part apart. And puts it back together again. Over and over and over.

Then we clock him.

If he does the right job in the right time, bully for him.

He does it again.

Only after he passes the test twice do we feel he's mastered that part. And can ga on to another.

But this is only part of the grind.

When this man's not working on the VW, we're working on him. At a Volkswagen training school.

There he spends seven hours a day in class studying about the car.

So by the end of his apprenticeship, he knows every nook and cranny in a VW.

For once, man counts as much as the machine.

It was readily apparent beforehand that no matter how much progress the Tigers' defense had made, no Ivy League team has the personnel to stop Brian Dowling, Calvin Hill and the big Yale ends, Bruce Weinstein and Lew Roney. Accordingly, the degree of success that Princeton might achieve depended on the ability of its offensive unit to control the ball — to keep the unstoppable Eli machine on the bench.

When Princeton took the opening kickoff and drove 73 yards in a dozen plays for a touchdown, the game plan worked to perfection. Better than a third of the period was then erased from the clock in the process, and Dowling was still waiting for a chance to get on the field.

While the outcome hung in the balance, however, that was the only solid shot fired by the Tiger offense. Four times during the afternoon, Princeton had the ball no more than 20 yards from the Yale goal line, and its total output from all those opportunities was three points. One scoring chance was fumbled away, two others were stopped on downs (one of them after a third-and-one situation), and the other was capped by Arnie Holsberg's 20-yard field goal.

The Other Side of the Coin. Yale, meanwhile, began by barely keeping alive its feat of scoring in every quarter when it twice failed to move the ball but then went 51 yards in three plays for a TD with 9 seconds left. It was a 39-yard Dowling-to-Hill aerial that made it 7-6 for the Blue and left the visitors playing their familiar catch-up ball for the final three periods.

Dowling's new role as a safety man on punt returns brought the ball 32 yards nearer the Princeton goal following a Tiger kick by Dick Bracken and six plays covered the remaining 28 yards. This time the Eli quarterback ran it in himself and then passed for a two-point conversion.

The Tigers went 55 yards to the Yale 4 as the clock ran out, settling for three points just before the half ended. Statistically, they had outgained the Blue, tailback Scott MacBean had outpassed Brian Dowling and the outcome hinged on the extent to which they could keep the Elis in sight.

The answer came after the home team had gone 77 yards in 11 plays to open the third quarter, again adding a two point conversion as it almost appeared to toy with the Tiger defenders. Trailing by 23-9, the Tigers drove downfield from their 26, MacBean passing for 8 to end Mike Garton to make it third and one from the Yale 16.

Another pass was called, a solid decision if the offense is good enough to make short yardage on fourth down from an obvious running play. This year, however, the Tigers are not. The pass missed, the full back wedge missed, and the ball game was over right there.

Two more Yale touchdowns followed before the quarter ended on drives of 65 and 65 yards; in the final period, the victors went 98 yards for their last TD after a penalty set them back on their 2. Dowling and Hill accounted for all six either running or passing.

Rolling for 417 yards on offense, exclusive of another 108 on kick returns, Yale was the perfect example of a team so powerful that the mistakes it commits are not costly. The Elis lost a fumble and had two of Dowling's passes picked off but still won very much as they pleased.

Tigers Show No Progress. When Princeton was upset by Rutgers to start its 1968 season, Dick Colman commented that defeat was largely traceable to the fact that "we couldn't run four plays in a row without making some horrible mistake." Seven games later, the Tigers were still guilty of poor timing in the backfield, of a fumble that cost possession on the Yale 17, and of 76 yards more in penalties.

The total yardage lost by rules infractions is now close to 400. If the numerous sizable gains erased when the penalties are paced off are added to that, the figure is undoubtedly closer to 800. More often than not this fall, the Tigers have done as much to beat themselves as the opposing defense has been able to achieve.

A release last week from the Yale sports publicity office reported that "Brian Dowling, Calvin Hill and 27 other Yale seniors will make their first bowl appearance in the Bowl Saturday." There is little doubt that with the Class of 1969, the Elis have had all their eggs in one basket, and their two year dynasty in the Ivy League will end next fall assuming their ability to trim Harvard Saturday.

While there are a scattering of capable juniors and sophomores at New Haven, overall strength for the past two years is markedly sub par. A year ago, Princeton's freshman eleven topped its Eli counterparts, 48 to 20, and last week, the Class of '72 won at New Haven 54 to 12.

As the late Charlie Caldwell pointed out when he had a pair of 9-and-0 teams, "Sooner or later, the wheel will turn full circle," and now, in the vicinity of the Yale Bowl, it is apparently ready to move.

QUICK LOOK AT CORNELL

OFFENSE: Rebuilt line has failed to function and lack of scoring punch has been largely responsible for 1-6 Ivy record. Running and passing games both below 1967 performances.

DEFENSE: Largely veteran material but has not been able to absorb all the stress placed on it by subpar offense unit.

CHIEF ASSET: All-senior backfield has experience and potential for balanced attack which exploded in Tigers' face a year ago.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Riding from ashes of disappointing season against favored opponent in game away from home. Cornell hasn't won here since 1906.

TYPE OF ATTACK: Wing-T with balanced line.

Ivy League Forecast

Princeton over Cornell. Thin edge to thin offense.

Yale over Harvard. Eli offense tops Crimson defense.

Columbia over Brown. Domres finishes big.

Penn over Dartmouth. Unbelievable, but this is 1968.

It takes a week to make the car. And 3 years to make the mechanic.

Oh the difference between a bug and a man.

In just seven days a piece of steel evolves into a sturdy Volkswagen.

But only after three years does a raw recruit evolve into a bona fide Volkswagen mechanic.

It's not an easy process.

He starts with a lowly doorknob and works his way up to the electrical system. (With an eagle-eyed supervisor over his shoulder.)

He takes every part apart. And puts it back together again. Over and over and over.

Then we clock him.

If he does the right job in the right time, bully for him.

He does it again.

Only after he passes the test twice do we feel he's mastered that part. And can go on to another.

But this is only part of the grind.

When this man's not working on the VW, we're working on him. At a Volkswagen training school.

There he spends seven hours a day in class studying about the car.

So by the end of his apprenticeship, he knows every nook and cranny in a VW.

For once, man counts as much as the machine.

PHS-MADISON IN FINALE Winning Season at Stake. In the wake of Notre Dame's whomy unexpected but convincing 34-7 victory last week, the Princeton High football team finds itself faced with a situation few thought would transpire. The Little Tigers must defeat visiting Madison Township in their final game of the season Saturday, otherwise they will end with a losing 4-5 record.

The identical situation confronts the Spartans who will come to Princeton for their last game with a 4-4 record. Like PHS, Madison has been in and out this season.

"They're hard to figure out," said PHS coach Dick Wood, commenting on Madison. "They're a pretty good team and yet they lost last week to Linden which hadn't won a game. They must have had a week like we did."

"Apparently," he continued, "they don't have the passing they've had before but they have a strong line, both offensively and defensively. Linden couldn't run against them at all.

"It should be a fairly even game. Although East Brunswick beat Madison, it didn't beat them badly. (East Brunswick topped PHS, 20-13, two weeks ago.) "If we don't get this one we don't have a winning season," Wood said.

The game will start at 11.

What Happened? The few in the stands watched in amazement last week as visiting Notre Dame, hardly acting like a team that had won only one game this year, scored five times. What happened to the Little Tigers?

To be sure, PHS made some costly mistakes but even so there was no mistaking the clear-cut superiority of the Irish that day. Looking for something to dispel the gloom, PHS principal Ken Michael told Wood after the game, "Aw, Lef, Dick you can't blame it on one particular play or one bad break."

Notre Dame played almost a perfect game," said Wood. Everything they did, they did well.

We depend a lot on Arcaro and his passing was off. Our defense was confused. I don't remember us looking as bad since the Hamilton game.

We just weren't ready. Everybody, from myself on down, just didn't put enough emphasis on the game," he added.

Notre Dame scored with only 2:11 gone in the first quarter. From the 49, Irish quarterback Larry Zukowski fired a long pass to his halfback, Jeff Teague. Mike Tomlinson, defending, was in perfect position. He tipped the ball, however and it arched over his head into the waiting arms of Teague who raced on. Jack Stephen booted the first of five conversions.

PHS was held the first time it got the ball and had to punt. The same was true the second time; PHS looked flat. However, the Little Tigers got a break when ND fumbled Laurie Bloom's second punt and guard Chris Smith recovered on the Irish 33.

Arcaro Brings PHS Even. On the next play only its seventh in the period — Arcaro twisted through the ND defense on a fine run for his ninth TD of the season. When Chris Gartner tied it at 7-7, it began to look as if that early ND score was just a mistake and PHS was on its way.

Actually, it's was to be the Blue and White's high-water mark. It never came close thereafter.

A bad snap-back which ND covered on the PHS 35 set up the visitor's second score. Talback Jack Robertiello, the best runner on the field this day, took it in from the 13.

Princeton came on the first at the start of the second half, all fired up, trying to regain momentum. However, with 4 minutes ND was knocking again and only a combined defensive effort by Arcaro, Jack Van Zandt and Maurie Peabody, who threw Robertiello for a loss on a fourth down from the PHS one yard line, kept Notre Dame from scoring again.

Wood gambled heavily when he went for a fourth down and inches from the PHS 14. Arcaro getting the first down with nine yards to spare on Princeton's bread and butter play — Arcaro off tackle. But the drive stalled and Bloom's punt only carried 3 yards to the PHS 49.

In three plays, ND scored.

THIS WAS IT FOR LITTLE TIGERS: Nick Arcaro's 33-yard run with 1:27 to go in the first quarter was the sum and substance of Princeton High School's attack, as Notre Dame surprised PHS, 35-7. TD was Arcaro's ninth of the season. (Staff Photo)

the last 28 yards coming on a Zukowski to Teague pass over the middle. Zukowski then passed 30 yards to end Chris Kaz or early in the final period for Notre Dame's fourth touchdown.

The play was set up when Arcaro, back to pass, was hit on the blind side, just as he released the ball. The officials ruled that Bob Bartram had recovered for ND, above strong protests from the PHS bench that Arcaro had thrown the ball and it should be ruled an incompleted pass.

Later, when an Arcaro pass to Bob Cooper on fourth down was no good and PHS had to give up the ball, Robertiello on the next play galloped 56 yards for his second TD. After that Wood began to insert his second-stringers.

It was only the second win for Notre Dame in eight starts. Said Irish coach Walt Porter: "Our boys were really up for this one. It was a matter of regaining our self-respect."

HUN TO END SEASON Saturday Against Pennington, too. Two Princeton area prep school rivals will end their seasons against each other Saturday at 2 when the Hun School will play host to Pennington School.

Hun enters the game with a 6-0-1 record, tied with Bryn Athyn for the lead in the Penn-Jersey League, and a chance for its second straight undefeated season. Pennington's record is as dismal as Hun's is bright—it has won only one this year under its new coach, John Biddiscombe.

Biddiscombe took over from Harold Poore, after the long time Red Raider coach had held the reins for the past 41 years. Poor was the dean of coaches in the state. Despite the respective records of each school, Hun coach Hawley Waterman is not expecting an easy time.

Poore, he recalled, always used to delight in springing something special on Hun. "Pennington has always been tough for us," Waterman said.

Hun 13-0 Over George. While Pennington was losing its last start to Bryn Athyn, 32-6, Hun was blanking George School, its nemesis last year, 13-0. After a scoreless opening period at Newtown, Pa., Hun ate up a large portion of the second period, marching 97 yards in 13 plays for its first score. Fullback Stanley "Skitch" Donald banged over from the three.

In the third period, Jim Kopliner, another Hun fullback, capped a scoring drive by going over from one yard out. Hun held a 13-3 edge in first downs and outrushed the losers, 199-41.

If Hun slips by Pennington, the only hope it has of owning the league championship outright is for Bryn Athyn to lose its final game to George School. That is unlikely, however, and as a consequence Hun will probably find itself in the frustrating position of not having lost a game in two years but failing to win a championship.

PDS VS. MORRISTOWN Winning Season Is in Reach. There will be no undefeated season or conference title riding on the outcome of Friday's football game between Princeton Day School and Morristown Prep, but Panther players will still have plenty of extra incentive to win this one. The action will unfold beginning at 2. At stake is a winning record at 2:30 on the PDS field — five victories in eight games, and a sweet ending to the school's second year of varsity competition. Coming after last season's 2-6 mark, the turnaround would be a floc

Later, when an Arcaro pass to Bob Cooper on fourth down was no good and PHS had to give up the ball, Robertiello on the next play galloped 56 yards for his second TD. After that Wood began to insert his second-stringers.

It was only the second win for Notre Dame in eight starts. Said Irish coach Walt Porter: "Our boys were really up for this one. It was a matter of regaining our self-respect."

BOBBY KING FOR LONG GAINER: Bobby King of University Store is headed for the two-yard line of Princeton Fuel Oil Company in action in the Princeton Midget Football League. Play was the last in an eight-minute scoreless battle staged during the half of the PHS-ND game Saturday. Matthews Construction and Nassau Conover Motors also battled to a scoreless tie. HUN TO END SEASON

Saturday Against Pennington. Two Princeton area prep school rivals will end their seasons against each other Saturday at 2 when the Hun School will play host to Pennington School.

Hun enters the game with a 6-0-1 record, tied with Bryn Athyn for the lead in the Penn-Jersey League, and a chance for its second straight undefeated season. Pennington's record is as dismal as Hun's is bright—it has won only one this year under its new coach, John Biddiscombe.

Biddiscombe took over from Harold Poore, after the long-time Red Raider coach had held the reins for the past 41 years. Poor was the dean of coaches in the state. Despite the respective records of each school, Hun coach Hawley Waterman is not expecting an easy time.

Poore, he recalled, always used to delight in springing something special on Hun. "Pennington has always been tough for us," Waterman said.

Hun 13-0 Over George. While Pennington was losing its last start to Bryn Athyn, 32-6, Hun was blanking George School, its nemesis last year, 13-0. After a scoreless opening period at Newtown, Pa., Hun ate up a large portion of the second period, marching 97 yards in 13 plays for its first score. Fullback Stanley "Skitch" Donald banged over from the three.

In the third period, Jim Kopfiner, another Hun fullback, capped a scoring drive by going over from one yard out. Hun held a 13-3 edge in first downs and outrushed the losers, 199-41.

If Hun slips by Pennington, the only hope it has of owning the league championship outright is for Bryn Athyn to lose its final game to George School. That is unlikely, however, and as a consequence Hun will probably find itself in the frustrating position of not having lost a game in two years but failing to win a championship.

PDS VS. MORRISTOWN

Winning Season Is in Reach. Friends will be an undefeated season or conference title riding on the outcome of Friday's football game between Princeton Day School and Morristown Prep, but Panther players will have plenty of extra incentive to win this one. The action will unfold beginning at 2. At stake is a winning record and 2-30 on the PDS field. Five victories in eight games, and a sweet ending to the school's second year of varsity competition. Coming after last season's 2-6 mark, the turnaround would be a fine achievement for coaches Dan Barren and Dick Barnes and their squad, and indicative that PDS, regardless of its small size, can play winning football.

A 36-to-0 mighty rated Morristown eleven would not be disastrous, nor would the result 4-4 finish for PDS. But the season has already seen a strong measure of improvement over last. But for the second time this season, the Panthers appear to be fairly evenly matched with their opponents. A victory here will mean much more than any of the others except Montclair.

In their three losses, the Panthers were totally outclassed by Hun, Chestnut Hill and St. Andrews. Only a superhuman could have turned the outcome around in their favor.

In three of their wins, they would have had to play extremely badly to lose. Only in the Montclair game, won by a 12-8, margin were the teams evenly matched.

Visitors Favored. Morristown, on the basis of its 6-1 record, including triumphs over Montclair, 33-0, MacArthur Military, 42-0, and St. Bernards, 14-0, must be rated the favorite. However, a degree of optimism persists, that PDS, coming off a strong 48-7 thrashing of Friends School Saturday, will be able to meet the visitors on equal terms. It will take some solid football and an absolute minimum of errors, but the Panthers may be able to pull it off. The possibility of Morristown turning the contest into a rout is also present, if PDS begins to make crucial mistakes.

One such miscue gave Friends Academy seven points midway through the first period of Saturday's game, but it was of no consequence, as the Blue and White, leading 13-0 at the time went on to roll up 48 points, the highest total in the school's short history of varsity play.

Tailback Rick Judge, who led the team on offense with three touchdowns, began the scoring parade in the first quarter with a 30 yard run. Defensive end Crichton Adams wasted no time in putting another six points on the scoreboard when he intercepted a pass and ran it back 25 yards into the end zone. Jerry Dunning booted his first of five extra points, a fine performance in any league, and the score was 13-0.

PDS Ices It Early. A 21-point second quarter put the contest on ice for PDS, with Judge scoring twice on runs of 43 and eight yards, and a 25-yard aerial from Erik Heggen to Tony Dale. Craig Page had a 30 yard score called back because PDS was penalized for holding. Barren at this point was substituting freely.

In the third quarter fresh man tailback Kirk Moore scored twice on long runs, but also had one called back because of a PDS infraction. Heggen passed to end Carl Rosenberg for the game's final score in the third quarter.

PDS amassed 288 yards rushing and 69 passing, Heggen, who was 6 for 10 passing, is gaining confidence at quarterback, Barren reported.

On defense the Panthers, with middle guard Calvin Johnson playing well, completely shut down Friends' ground game, forcing the losers to pass about 80% of the time. However, the PDS secondary rose to the occassion and had the Friends' receivers well covered.

Seniors playing their last game for the Panthers include co-captains, Keith Bash, Ashby Adams and Page, split end Tom Spain, tailback Rick Judge, Jerry Dunning, Calvin Johnson and Ken Metzger. Center Ed Cole played his last game Saturday, when he suffered a broken leg against Friends. His long kickoffs will be missed by PDS on Friday. Junior Jack Kilgore will probably fill in at center.

FUEL OIL CHAMPION

In Midget League. A 19-6 victory over Matthews Construction gave Princeton Fuel Oil the Senior Division crown in the Midget Football League Sunday, as the University Store clinched second place with a 6-2 triumph over Nassau Conover.

After a scoreless first period, Princeton Fuel Oil drew first blood when Lester Bethea scored from the two to cap a 36-yard march. However, Bobby Weisbecker put Matthews back in contention, when he passed 14 yards to Dave McNamara, eight more to Frank Caponi and 11 to Dan Del Veccio and then ran the ball in from there. The score was 6-6 at the half, although Fuel Oil almost scored when Mark Richards ran the ensuing kick off back 55 yards before being halted. Matthews finally held on its two yard line.

Late in the third quarter, Dane Black, Bethea, Glen Goethals and Mark Richards brought the ball down to the two yard line, where Dave Jackson took it in on a fourth down plunge. Bethea converted the extra point with a run, and Fuel Oil led 13-6. Black added the finish on the cake when he returned a punt 30 yards for a score on the last play of the game.

Bethea ran 35 yards in 10 carries and a score, Black 54 yards in 14 carries and completed 6 of 9 passes, 3 to Richards for a total of 17 yards and 3 completions to Goethals for 38 yards. Craig Robinson, Buddy Kleiberg, Roe Aiman and Mark Campbell were defensive leaders for Fuel Oil.

Weisbecker had 63 yards in 12 carries and a touchdown, and completed 3 passes. Caponi had 7 yards in 3 tries and Dan Streater 8 yards in 1 carry. Allan Fitch recovered a fumble, and Jimmy Bolster, Ted Baruch, Daren Perone and Dan Del Veccio starred on defense for Mathews.

In the second game, Nassau Conover scored a safety when Jaime Petrone tackled Bobby King in the end zone, and held on to its 2-0 advantage for two periods. In the third, however, King got loose and scampered 55 yards for the winning tally.

U Store then protected its slim lead as Jimmy Murphy recovered a fumble, Kevin Smith and King each intercepted a pass and Wray Blattner, Tom Root, Jimmy Brooks and Tony LaPlaca combined to halt Conover's attack.

John Soderman of Nassau Conover had 15 yards in 4 carries, George Reynolds 16 yards in 10 carries and Jamie Petrone 49 yards in 14 tries. He also passed to Pete Bonette for 15 yards. Kevin Murphy on defense intercepted one pass, Roy Brower, John McCullough, David Harwood, Peter Pilshaw and Chuck Mapes were outstanding in a losing cause.

In the junior division, J. P. Cleaver and the Gold and Blue teams tied for first place holding the First National Bank and the Red and White teams to a pair of scoreless ties. The League asks that all boys return their equipment on Sunday, November 24, from 1-3 at the Valley Road gymnasium.

ST. PAUL'S UNDEFEATED

In CYO Basketball. Three early season wins, 35-28 over St. Joachims, 48-42 over Blessed Sacrament and a 37-36 squeaker over the Holy Angels, have given St Paul's basketball the lead in the Mercer County Catholic Youth Organization League.

Led by the redoubtable Kevin Tylus at center, whose exploits on the gridiron, the baseball diamond and the basketball court could fill any scrapbook, the St. Paul's five has a pair of fleet guards in Steve Perone and Keith Ebrahim and two top rebounders in Guy Bertone and Mark Leveseur.

Scoring with the artistic aplomb of a Bill Bradley, Tylus is pacing all scorers with a superlative 22-point per game average, double that of his teammate Perone, who owns an 11-point per game average. The team's smooth working of fense is its greatest asset.

Rounding out the starting five is a group of experienced and reliable subs including Doug Petrozzini, Mickey O'Donnel, Tom Geoghan, Jim Geoghan, Joe Forman, Dan Colucco, Chris Leaper, Mario DeVincenzo, John Perone and Pat Kahny.

On the basis of these wins, St. Paul's has been installed as the odds-on favorite to repeat as champions of the Southern Division. However, coach Fred Leuper, facing four difficult contests against the Northern Division front runners, comments, "We're preparing for them one at a time." This Saturday the leaders square off against St. Hedwigs in a 5 p.m. tilt in the CYO Trenton arena.

The lead is still the property of Claridge Liquors with 50 points. Balestrieri has 44 and Princeton Taxi and Ivy Inn 38 each. Jefferson Plumbing has 36.

CRANBURY BANK GAINS

Trails Rosso's By One. Trailing last week by five points, Cranbury Bank has narrowed the deficit between itself and league-leading Rosso's Cafe to 66-65 in the Princeton Women's Bowling League.

In position night at the Hightstown Lanes last week, Cranbury topped Rosso's, 6-2. Turney Motors strengthened its hold on third place when it defeated fourth-place Mamel, 6-2. Turney now has 58 points, Mamel 49. Swift's Colonial Diner (5-3 victor over Irene's Day Nursery) is in fifth place with 41.

Jean Fosser of Rocky & Sons rolled the high individual game, a 189. Marge Davison of Mamel had 186. Evelyn Enyedy of Turney 185 and Helen Scott of Cranbury Bank, 182. Others: Betty Frazee, 177; Marilyn Silvestor, 176; and Ann Pfister, 176. Betty Cooper converted the 6-7-10 split.

Mamel fashioned both the high team game and high team series of 835 and 2372.

achievement for coaches Dan Barren and Dick Barnes and their squad, and indicative that PDS, regardless of its small size, can play winning football.

A loss to a mighty rated Morristown eleven would not be disastrous, nor would the resulting 4-4 finish for PDS, the season has already seen a strong measure of improvement over last. But for the second time this season, the Panthers appear to be fairly evenly matched with their opponents. A victory here would mean much more than any of the others except Montclair.

In their three losses, the Panthers were totally outclassed by Hun, Chestnut Hill and St Andrews. Only a superhuman could have turned the tide in any one of these contests.

In three of their wins, they would have had to play extremely badly to lose. Only in the Montclair game, won by a 12-8 margin were the teams evenly matched.

Visitors Favored. Morristown, on the basis of its 6-1 record, including triumphs over Montclair, 31-0, MacArthur Military, 42-0, and St Bernards, 14-0, must be rated the favorite. However, a degree of optimism persists, that PDS, coming off a strong 48-7 thrashing of Friends School Saturday, will be able to meet the visitors on equal terms. It will take some solid football and an absolute minimum of errors, but the Panthers may be able to pull it off. The passibility of Morristown turning the contest into a rout is also present, if PDS begins to make crucial mistakes.

One such miscue gave Friends Academy seven points midway through the first period of Saturday's game, but it was of no consequence, as the Blue and White, leading 13-0 at the time went on to roll up 48 points, the highest total in the school's short history of varsity play.

Tailback Rick Judge, who has lead the team on offense with three touchdowns, began the scoring parade in the first quarter with a 30 yard run. Defensive end Crichton Adams wasted no time in putting another six points on the score board when he intercepted a pass and ran it back 25 yards into the end zone. Jerry Dunning booted his first of five extra points, a fine performance in any league, and the score was 13-0.

PDS Ices It Early. A 21 point second quarter put the contest on ice for PDS, with Judge scoring twice on runs of 43 and eight yards, and a 25 yard aerial from Erik Heggen to Tony Dale. Craig Page had a 30-yard score called back because PDS was penalized for holding. Barren at this point was substituting freely.

In the third quarter freshman fullback Kirk Moore scored twice on long runs, but also had one called back because of a PDS infraction. Heggen passed to end Carl Rosenberg for the game's final score in the third quarter.

PDS amassed 288 yards rushing and 69 passing. Heggen, who was 6 for 10 passing, is gaining confidence at quarterback, Barren reported.

On defense the Panthers, with middle guard Calvin Johnson playing well, completely shut down Friends' ground game, forcing the losers to pass about 80% of the time, However, the PDS secondary rose to the occassion and had the Friends' receivers well covered.

Seniors playing their last game for the Panthers include, co-captains, Keith Bash, Ashby Adams and Page, split end Tom Spain, tailback Rick Judge, Jerry Dunning, Calvin Johnson and Ken McGregor. Center Ed Cole played his last game Saturday, when he suffered a broken leg against Friends. His long kickoffs will be missed by PDS on Friday. Junior Jack Kilgore will probably fill in at center.

FUEL OIL CHAMPION

In Midget League. A 19-6 victory over Matthews Construction gave Princeton Fuel Oil the Senior Division crown in the Midget Football League on Sunday, as the University Store clinched second place with a 6-2 triumph over Nassau Conover.

After a scoreless first period, Princeton Fuel Oil drew first blood when Lester Bethea scored from the two to cap a 36-yard march. However, Bobby Weisbecker put Matthews back in contention, when he passed 14 yards to Dave McNamara, eight more to Frank Caponi and 11 to Dan Del Veccio and then ran the ball in from there. The score was 6-6 at the half, although Fuel Oil almost scored when Mark Richards ran the ensuing kick-off back 55 yards before being halted. Matthews finally held on its two-yard line.

Late in the third quarter, Dane Black, Bethea, Glen Goethals and Mark Richards brought the ball down to the two-yard line, where Dave Burton took it in on a fourth down plunge. Bethea converted the extra point with a run, and Fuel Oil led 13-6. Black added insult to the cake when he returned a punt 30 yards for a score on the last play of the game.

Bethea ran 35 yards in 10 carries and a score, Black 34 yards in 14 carries and completed 6 of 9 passes, 3 to Richards for a total of 17 yards and 3 completions to Goethals for 38 yards. Craig Robinson, Buddy Kleiberg, Roe Aiman and Mark Campbell were defensive leaders for Fuel Oil.

Weisbecker had 63 yards in 12 carries and a touchdown, and completed 3 passes. Caponi had 7 yards in 3 tries and Kim Stricker 6 in 1 carry. Allan Fitch recovered a fumble, and Jimmy Bolster, Ted Baruch, Daren Perone and Dan Del Veccio starred on defense for Mathews.

In the second game, Nassau Conover scored a safety when Jaime Petrone tackled Bobby King in the end zone, and held on to its 2-0 advantage for two periods. In the third, however, King got loose and scampered 55 yards for the winning tally.

U Store then protected its slim lead as Jimmy Murphy recovered a fumble, Kevin Smith and King each intercepted a pass and Wray Blattner, Tom Rool, Jimmy Brooks and Tony LaPlaca combined to halt Conover's attack.

John Soderman of Nassau Conover had 15 yards in 4 carries, George Reynolds 16 yards in 10 carries and Jamie Petrone 49 yards in 14 tries. He also passed to Pete Bonetie for 15 yards. Kevin Murphy on defense intercepted one pass, Ray Brower, John McCullough, Brad Harwood, Peter Pilshaw and Chuck Mapes were outstanding in a losing cause.

In the junior division, J. P. Cleaver and the Gold and Blue teams tied for first place holding the First National Bank and the Red and White teams to a pair of scoreless ties. The League asks that all boys return their equipment on Sunday, November 24, from 1-3 at the Valley Road gymnasium.

ST. PAUL'S UNDEFEATED

in CYO Basketball. Three early season wins, 35-28 over St. Joachims, 48-42 over Blessed Sacrament and a 37-36 squeaker over the Holy Angels, have given St. Paul's basketball the lead in the Mercer County Catholic Youth Organization League.

Led by the redoubtable Kevin Tyus at center, whose exploits on the gridiron, the baseball diamond and the basketball court could fill any scrapbook, the St. Paul's five has a pair of fleet guards in Steve Perone and Keith Ebrahim and two top rebounders in Guy Bertone and Mark Leversuer.

Scoring with the artistic aplomb of a Bill Bradley, Tyus is pacing all scorers with a superlative 22-point per game average, double that of his teammate Perone, who owns an 11 point per game average. The team's smooth working of fense is its greatest asset.

Rounding out the starting five is a group of experienced and reliable subs including Doug Petrozzini, Mickey O'Donnel, Tom Geoghan, Jim Geoghan, Joe Forman, Dan Colucco, Chris Leaper, Mario DeVincenzo, John Perone and Pat Kahny.

On the basis of these wins, St. Paul's has been installed as the odds-on favorite to repeat as champions of the Southern Division. However, coach Fred Leuper, facing four difficult contests against the Northern Division front runners, comments, "We're preparing for them one at a time." This Saturday the leaders square off against St. Hedwigs in a 5 p.m. tilt in the CYO Trenton arena.

Others: Betty Pirone, 171; Melba Cruser, 169; Ruth Bonin, 167; Marge Drummond, 163-166; and Elaine Bartolino and Betty Kleiber, 165. Marge Davison and Dot Thomas converted the 4-5-7 split, Alice Frazzetta the 5-6-10.

The lead is still the property of Claridge Liquors with 50 points. Balestrieri has 44 and Princeton Taxi and Ivy Inn 38 each. Jefferson Plumbing has 36.

CRANBURY BANK GAINS

Trails Rosso's By One. Trailing last week by five points, Cranbury Bank has narrowed the deficit between itself and league-leading Rosso's Cafe to 66-65 in the Princeton Women's Bowling League.

In position night at the Hightstown Lanes last week, Cranbury topped Rosso's, 6-2. Turney Motors strengthened its hold on third place when it defeated fourth-place Mamel, 6-2. Turney now has 58 points, Mamel 49. Swift's Colonial Diner (5-3 victor over Irene's Day Nursery) is in fifth place with 41.

Jean Foster of Rocky & Sons rolled the high individual game, a 189. Marge Davison of Mamel had 186, Evelyn Enyedy of Turney 185 and Helen Scott of Cranbury Bank, 182. Others: Betty Frazee, 177; Marilyn Silvestor, 176; and Ann Pfister, 176. Betty Cooper converted the 6-7-10 split.

Mamel fashioned both the high team game and high team series of 835 and 2372.

WHEATSHEAF LANE . . . on one of Princeton's loveliest streets, this little gem of a house is ideal for a couple dreaming of retirement. First floor: living room, dining room, modern kitchen with a screened deck just out the back door where one can loiter over a late breakfast and listen to the music of Harry's Brook in the back yard . . . plus 2 bedrooms and a brand new tiled bath. Downstairs: a large recreation room, with bar, with a door to the back yard. The lot is small and easy to maintain, but the trees and shrubs are so luxurious that they create a privacy which you will prize forever. New refrigerator-freezer and combination washer-dryer are included in the sale . . . also, wall to wall carpeting throughout the house, and some furniture in the recreation room. (*) $37,000

NEW COLONIALS . . . built by one of Princeton's most dependable builders, these fine new homes are located among tall trees on a quiet cul-de-sac in West Windsor Township. For commuters, only three minutes away from the railroad station. All six homes will be ready for occupancy in the Spring. 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, family rooms. Now is the time for you to make your choice, while you're still able to choose colors, equipment, etc. Your children will love the area, for there are many playmates in this young neighborhood. By all means, see these fine homes before you decide. Priced in middle 40's.

MANY EXTRAS . . . here is a beautiful home in a very nice new neighborhood in Lawrenceville where your children can find many, many playmates. 5 bedrooms, 3 baths, central air-conditioning. However, a mere recital of rooms and other such details will never give you the true picture of this property. What makes this fine home so unusual is the fact that the owners have put so much more into their house — base-board heat, for example, so that the extra investment in duct work enables them to freshen the indoor air in Winter when they entertain; wall-to-wall carpeting: a pair of real old carriage lamps beside the front door; a larger than usual deck outside the dining room; a TV antenna with rotor; special landscaping . . . the list is really quite long! Add up all the extras, and you'll agree that this is an excellent value. $47,500

NEAR THE LAKE . . . and with central air-conditioning too! On a high lot with many lofty shade trees, this fine home will appeal to people who appreciate perfection. The living room, with its high ceiling, companionable fireplace and the opulent wall-to-wall carpeting, has a balcony leading to 3 bedrooms (one, extra large, for it was planned to be two) and two baths. The dining room is very spacious, and the very modern kitchen has plenty of space for table and chairs. Downstairs: family room with bar, guest (or maid's) room and bath. Two-car attached garage. In the attic, a darkroom and lots of storage space. Outdoors: a large swimming pool in a completely fenced yard, beautifully landscaped. (*) $65,000

LAWRENCE . . . two-story stone and frame Colonial, located in a fine residential neighborhood with many towering trees. Large living & dining rooms. Lovely new kitchen, plus butler's pantry. Two fireplaces, 6 bedrooms, 4 baths and powder room. Located near a college and across the road from a golf club, this fine home is a place you'll love to live in and always be proud of. $79,500

BROOKSTONE . . . in one of Princeton's most beautiful wooded areas, this large brick and frame residence, with central air-conditioning, has a spacious foyer, large living room with fireplace, dining room, library with fireplace, modern kitchen, 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, powder room and, on the second floor, a huge upstairs family room. Two acres of land, with beautiful trees and shrubs. This is a large house, designed and built for people of means. You'll benefit from all the thoughtful care this fine home has had, and you'll always be thankful for the landscaping which makes the setting so beautiful . . . and so perfect! $115,000

(*) Many more fine homes in Princeton & vicinity in a wide price range. Ample parking space for our clients.

WHEATSHEAF LANE . . . on one of Princeton's loveliest streets, this little gem of a house is ideal for a couple dreaming of retirement. First floor: living room, dining room, modern kitchen with a screened deck just out the back door where one can loiter over a late breakfast and listen to the music of Harry's Brook in the back yard . . . plus 2 bedrooms and a brand new tiled bath. Downstairs: a large recreation room, with bar, with a door to the back yard. The lot is small and easy to maintain, but the trees and shrubs are so luxuriant that they create a privacy which you will prize forever. New refrigerator-freezer and combination washer-dryer are included in the sale . . . also, wall to wall carpeting throughout the house, and some furniture in the recreation room. (*) $37,000

NEW COLONIALS . . . built by one of Princeton's most dependable builders, these fine new homes are located among tall trees on a quiet cul-de-sac in West Windsor Township. For commuters, only three minutes away from the railroad station. All six homes will be ready for occupancy in the Spring. 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, family rooms. Now is the time for you to make your choice, while you're still able to choose colors, equipment, etc. Your children will love the area, for there are many playmates in this young neighborhood. By all means, see these fine homes before you decide. Priced in middle 40's.

MANY EXTRAS . . . here is a beautiful home in a very nice new neighborhood in Lawrenceville where your children can find many, many playmates. 5 bedrooms, 3 baths, central air-conditioning. However, a mere recital of rooms and other such details will never give you the true picture of this property. What makes this fine home so unusual is the fact that the owners have put so much more into their house — base-board heat, for example, so that the extra investment in duct work enables them to freshen the indoor air in Winter when they entertain; wall-to-wall carpeting, a pair of real old carriage lamps beside the front door; a larger than usual deck outside the dining room; a TV antenna with rotor; special landscaping . . . the list is really quite long! Add up all the extras, and you'll agree that this is an excellent value. $47,500

NEAR THE LAKE . . . and with central air-conditioning too! On a high lot with many lofty shade trees, this fine home will appeal to people who appreciate perfection. The living room, with its high ceiling, companionable fireplace and the opulent wall-to-wall carpeting, has a balcony leading to 3 bedrooms (one, extra large, for it was planned to be two) and two baths. The dining room is very spacious, and the very modern kitchen has plenty of space for table and chairs. Downstairs: family room with bar, guest (or maid's) room and bath. Two-car attached garage. In the attic, a dark room and lots of storage space. Outdoors: a large swimming pool in a completely fenced yard, beautifully landscaped. (*) $65,000

LAWRENCE . . . two-story stone and frame Colonial, located in a fine residential neighborhood with many towering trees. Large living & dining room. Lovely new kitchen, plus butler's pantry. Two fireplaces, 6 bedrooms, 4 baths and powder room. Located near a college and across the road from a golf club, this fine home is a place you'll love to live in and always be proud of. $79,500

BROOKSTONE . . . in one of Princeton's most beautiful wooded areas, this large brick and frame residence, with central air-conditioning, has a spacious foyer, large living room with fireplace, dining room, library with fireplace, modern kitchen, 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, powder room and, on the second floor, a huge upstairs family room. Two acres of land, with beautiful trees and shrubs. This is a large house, designed and built for people of means. You'll benefit from all the thoughtful care this fine home has had, and you'll always be thankful for the landscaping which makes the setting so beautiful . . . and so perfect! $115,000

Allen Howard Kassof, one of the handful of American sociologists specializing in Soviet affairs, who departed this week on a 20-day swing through Eastern European nations and the U.S.S.R. For the 37-year old Princetonian, on leave from his Princeton University duties as Associate Professor of Sociology and Assistant Dean of the College, it was one of his first assignments as Executive Director of the newly founded International Research and Exchange Board which is charged with organizing, and then sustaining, this country's largest program of academic exchanges with Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Rumania, the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia.

Numbered among the leading American Sovietologists, a generation younger than George F. Kennan and his associates, Kassof is devoting a sabbatical year to a major, exhausting and at times exasperating task: fostering mutual understanding and better relations between the countries involved. With the support of The Ford Foundation, and the endorsement of the Department of State, Kassof and his associates — in an area in which American efforts have not been capped with success — will attempt to facilitate new patterns of exchanges and arrange new forms of international scholarly cooperation.

The New York-born Kassof, widely regarded as a top authority on Soviet youth and author of "The Soviet Youth Program: Regimentation and Rebellion," has been specializing in Russian studies since his undergraduate years at Rutgers with the Class of 1952. Earning his advanced degrees at Rutgers and Harvard, he taught at Smith College for four years and, on leave from Smith, was serving as a Research Fellow in Harvard's Russian Research Center when called to Princeton in 1961 as William Paterson Bicentennial Preceptor, a post comparable at the level of assistant professor to an endowed chair on the plateau of full professors.

A good omen for Kassof's success in this new venture, which is jointly sponsored by the American Council of Learned Societies and the Social Science Research Council, has been his effective direction of Princeton's Cooperative Undergraduate Program for Critical Languages. This program, each year enabling some 25 young men and women from other campuses to study "critical languages" at Princeton (for example, Arabic, Chinese, Japanese, Korean and Persian), is looked upon as a "pilot plan" for a nationwide network of "receiving institutions" that would provide coverage for all of the "critical languages," from Bengali and Hindi to Munda and Sanskrit, by sharing institutional resources.

Kassof, highly articulate and well aware of the sensitivities he will be encountering in such nerve-centers as the universities in Russian-dominated Czechoslovakia, won kudos last spring as editor of "prospects for Soviet Society," a comprehensive overview of social change in the Soviet Union. Drawing conclusions from the contributions of 18 fellow specialists, Kassof suggested that changes in Soviet life over coming decades "are likely to take place within a still overwhelmingly authoritarian political system . . . in an atmosphere characterized by the continuing efforts of the Communist Party to mobilize and to control the material and human resources of the entire society."

For seeking to establish two-way communication between these United States and populations behind the still impenetrable "Iron Curtain;" for believing that intellectual relationships between individual scholars, and research and educational institutions here and abroad, can be developed; he is our nominee as
